Road Named Marcus Whitman Highway

The Yates County Board of Supervisors met on Wednesday morning in their rooms in the County Building to act on the naming of the Potter-Rushville road.

The Daughters of the American Revolution have worked untiringly to have the Potter-Rushville road named the Marcus Whitman Highway, after Marcus Whitman, the Rushville boy who saved the Northwest to the Union.

Supervisor Floyd P. Hunt introduced the resolution for the naming of the highway and it was passed unanimously.

SAMPSON

THURSDAY
ELLIOTT DEXTER and HELEN JEROME EDDY in
"AN OLD SWEETHEART OF MINE"

An adaption of what is probbly the most famous and certainly the most appealing poem ever written by that great poet so dear to the hearts of the American people—James Whitcomb Riley. Where the original poem suggests, the picture amplifies. Riley's masterpiece is brought to actual life before your eyes. Matinee 17c. Evening, 10-22c.

KINOGRAMS

FRIDAY
EDWARD HORTON and ETHEL GREY TERRY in
"TOO MUCH BUSINESS"

An amusing high-class comedy drama adapted from Earl Derr Biggers' Saturday Even-Post story, "John Henry and the Restless Sex." If you can stand seven reels of laughter, see "Too Much Business." Matinee 17c. Evening 10-22c.

OREGON TRAIL

SATURDAY
ALFRED LUNT and EDITH ROBERTS in
"BACKBONE"

Talk about your two-fisted dramas of the lawless North. Here's a picture that is packed with so many thrills that it actually leaves you breathless. A brawny fist was the most convincing language of the St. Croix lumber country—one day an unknown lad appeared in town—they thought he lacked that "brawny fist,"—but wait until you see what happened, you'll talk about it for a month Matinee, 10-17c. Evening, 17-22c. Children under twelve, 10c.

CENTURY COMEDY

MONDAY — TUESDAY
RICHARD BARTHELMESS and DOROTHY GISH in
"THE BRIGHT SHAWL"

Barthelmess has the role of adventurous young American, who, in the days of Spain's oppression of the Cubans, takes up the cause of the rebels and incidentally falls in love with the daughter of a rebel leader. The complications which ensue when La Clavel, a Spanish dancer, becomes infatuated with the young American, who encourages her so that he may gain information of value to the rebels, are said to make this one of the most absorbing photoplays of a decade. Admission: matinee 22c; evening 17-28c. Children under 12, 10c

Homes Reflect Community.

The future history of America will be shaped in large measure by the character of its homes. If we continue to be a home-loving people we shall have the strength that comes only from a virile family life. This means that our homes must be attractive, comfortable, convenient, wholesome; they must keep pace with the progress made outside the house. As is the home, so is the community and the nation.

Assembly President's Home Week

The Rebekah branch of Odd Fellowship in Yates county is highly honored in having the President of the Rebekah Assembly of New York chosen from its members: Mrs. Grace B. Clark, of East Main street, Assembly President, has for her guest for her Home Week her Associate Officers and the Past Presidents of the Assembly.

Mrs. Clark entertained at dinner last evening, covers being laid for thirty-four guests. The party comprised Mrs. Emily H. Biel, Vice President of Utica; Mrs. Frances C. Havens, Warden, of Cazenovia; Miss Agnes E. Rogers, P. P., Secretary, of New York; Mrs. Hattis Atherbuy, Treasurer, of Auburn; Mrs. Minnie F. Snyder, P. P., Advisory Supporter, of Newark; Mrs. Laura Whittleton, Marshal, of East Rochester; Mrs. Pauline Cary, Conductor, of Buffalo; Mrs. M. C. Barker, Outside Guardian, of Whitehall; Mrs. Edith Strain, Right Herald, of Auburn; Mrs. Elizabeth Durkee, Left Herald, of Clifton Springs, and Miss Mary Alice Stow, finance committee, of Clyde. Also Past Presidents Mrs. Nellie Barber, of Auburn, Mrs. Lillie S. Budd, of Rochester; Mrs. Lavina Harp, of Buffalo; Mrs. Minnie Leonard, of Hornell; Mrs. Nellie Much, of Rochester; Mrs. Anna Van Aken, of Kingston; Mrs. Ida Y. Smith, of Magraw, and Mrs. Louisa Schlicht, of New York; D. D. P. Dora Owens, of Penn Yan, and the members of the Past Noble Grands' Association of Yates District.

Other attractions for the week are a reception and banquet today at Middlesex by the Middlesex Rebekah Lodge. Wednesday a reception and banquet by Lake Keuka Rebekah Lodge to which the other lodges of the district are invited. Thursday a reception and banquet by Yates Rebekah Lodge at Dundee and Friday a luncheon at the Camp Bell cottage by the Past Noble Grands Association of Yates District.

Great Honor Bestowed Upon Penn Yan Boy

An honor coveted by all navy men and gained by few was bestowed upon Frank Schofield recently when he was promoted from the rank of Captain in the United States Navy to Rear Adimral. Captain Schofield was one of five captains who were thus honored.

Read Admiral Schofield was born and lived in Penn Yan for several years, and it is with just pride that we hear of his merited promotion. To be Read Admiral of a fleet of United States naval "greyhounds" carries a responsibility and a position of command and honor which is recognized the world over.

Read Admiral Schofield is a brother of Mrs. Charles Avery, of New York and Penn Yan, and a nephew of Mr. Frank Danes, of this village.

During the World War he was a member of the Naval Advisory Board. For the past two years he has been an instructor at the Williamson, Mass., College, where, for a period of four weeks he conducted a summer course. The rtmainder of his time has been given over to duties at the Naval Headquarters at Washington, D. C.

Read Admiral Schofield will make a visit to his native village some time during this month.

Horse Runs Away Injuring Woman

Mrs. Dick Wheeler, of Yatesville, was severely injured on Friday when the horse which she was driving became frightened and ran away, dragging Mrs. Wheeler for some distance. The woman's hip was broken, besides several other minor injuries and great shock.

The accident happened on the Branchport-Guyanoga road. Mrs. Wheeler was suffering from shock and seemed somewhat vague as to the cause. She was picked up by people in the vicinity and Dr. John Hatch was called to attend her. The injured woman is now in the Soldiers and Sailors' Memorial Hospital, where it is thought she will have to remain some time.

Mrs. Wheeler is the mother of Dr. J. Harvey Wheeler, of this village.

Plenty of Lemons

No bananas, but plenty of lemons; large, juicy and sour.

For the Middle West wheat farmer, dollar wheat.

For the Grand Old Party, Magnus Johnson.

For the politicians of both parties, Henry Ford.

For the householder, anthracite at $25 per ton, or substitutes.

For the prohibitionist, the bootlegger.

For the innocent bystander, a lily in his hand.

Yes, no bananas, but plenty of lemons; large, juicy and sour.—Ex.

Announcement

Penn Yan Express,
Penn Yan, N. Y.

Dear Sir: I take this opportunity of presenting myself as a candidate upon the Republican ticket for the nomination of Supervisor of the Town of Benton.

I make this announcement after receiving several requests from different parts of the Town and the support of all Republicans to that end will be greatly appreciated.

Yours respectfully,
LOREN NICHOLS.

—Mr. Edward A. Oehler, prominent Buffalo manufacturer and politician, is now at his summer home on Lake Keuka, enjoying a much needed rest. Mr. Oehler, who has traveled extensively in this country and abroad, having sojourned at the world's most renowned watering places, states that the Finger Lakes section is second to none for both beautiful scenery and recreation grounds.

—Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Waters and Miss Neva Waters are occupying the Plaisted cottage on the east side of the lake. For many years they have come from their home in Elmira Heights to fish in Lake Keuka, and Miss Neva Waters has many friends among the young people of Penn Yan. She was graduated from Elmira College in June and will teach mathematics in a school on the Hudson River next year.

—Fred Crumm, of Syracuse, is making his annual visit to Lake Keuka, camping near the College. Twenty-five years ago he left Penn Yan, after having lived here ten years. He was a photographer and occupied a studio in the building on the corner of Main and Jacob streets above where the Prouty & Rapalee drug store is located. He did good work and is remembered by many of the older citizens as a painstaking artist. Mr. Crumm comes back each year to Lake Keuka, saying that there is no body of water like it in the whole country.

Patrons of the Sampson Theatre will soon have the opportunity of seeing an extraordinary picture, "Backbone," the first of the 1923 big specials of the Distinctive Pictures Corporation which will be distributed through Goldwyn.

"Backbone" tells a powerful story of a romance which endures through many generations, and is played by a cast remarkable for versatility and experience.

Alfred Lunt takes the male lead. Lunt is hailed as the new, outstanding figure of the screen. This is his first appearance in a film, but it is said by those who have seen the picture that he photographs perfectly. When it is recalled that Lunt has established a reputation on Broadway as being the handsomest and one of the most able young actors of the present day the treat in store for patrons of the Sampson Theatre is apparent.

In addition to Lunt there is the the favorite of millions—Edith Roberts—more beautifll than ever in her dual role of the ancient and modern girl. This part gives her the chance to act as she has never acted before. Supporting Lunt and Miss Roberts is a remarkable cast, including William B. Mack, Marion Abbott, James D. Doyle, Hugh Huntley, George MacQuarrie and others.

The story of "Backbone" is the fulfillment in the Twentieth Century of a romance which was shattered in France generations ago. But it is not brought to a happy ending until all sorts of mystery and intrigue have been solved and thwarted.

Edward Sloman directed the picture. Clarence Budington Kelland wrote "Backbone" for the Saturday Evening Post.

"Backbone" will be shown Saturday, August 11th.

The Day of the Speed Maniac.

The auto traffic through Penn Yan and along the State roads adjacent to this village on Sunday is getting on the nerves of some people and to others it furnishes a never-ending source of amusement. Every other car is a Ford and most of them carry a load. There is everything from the modern Lincoln and Pierce-Arrow, back to the first designs which were put out by the original companies. That is not very far back as far as years go, but there have been such strides in the manufacture of automobiles that even the casual observer is able to distinguish at a glance those which have been running three or four years.

Occasionally one sees a made-over car and it is usually small and low and running very fast and is nearly always occupied by very young people. Often one of the first made seven-passenger autos will go sweeping by, looking decidedly out of place when compared with the very new ones, but when it was put out it was considered the last word in transportation. License plates dangle from the rear axle and they are interesting studies. Every State in the Union is represented, no two alike and most tourists stop in Penn Yan, if only long enough to purchase picture post cards. The old dodge of throwing mud upon the license plate and on the number to fool the traffic cop seems out of date these days, for usually they are as shining as the cars to which they are attached.

Many family parties have the dog along and they vary from the smallest pup to Great Danes and German Police Dogs. Occasionally a baby will be peacefully sleeping in a hammock, swung in the car, and a few days ago an auto went rapidly along one of our State roads, while the mother was bathing a half grown child. One day, two months ago, a truck took its way leisurely along the Lake road loaded with camping goods and on top of it were three children, a half grown boy and a woman. The latter was seated just back of the man at the wheel and she was reading "Main Street," so he could hear distinctly. The larger boy was playing a Victrola, the smallest child was playing with a kitten and the other children were putting a puppy through his paces. The family seemed unaware that they were doing anything unusual.

The crowd begins going early Saturday morning and until late Sunday morning there is a constant throng of autos passing through Penn Yan and going in every direction from there. About four o'clock, they commence to go back. The fast driving which is a menace to the community at large is carried on quite as much by our own people as by the tourists, but the strange part about autoing is, that the man at the wheel seldom feels that he is going very fast; he usually is outraged if any one accusses him of driving so rapidly that he helps to make the roads unsafe for children and elderly people or for any person who finds it necessary to cross a street while traffic is heaviest. An officer of Yates county was asked why something was not done to lessen the speed along State roads leading into Penn Yan. He replied that autoists were allowed to go thirty miles an hour for half a mile and then he must slow down for a distance before trying to speed up again. "It is a funny thing," he said, "an automobilist may seem to be going at a desperate rate of speed and some one may make a complaint against him; he goes into the Justices' Court and swears he was only going twenty-nine miles an hour and there is no one who can contradict him. Perhaps he really was going at that very rate and the man who made the complaint only THOUGHT that he was going faster. So, when a complaint is really made by some one who only saw the car going fast and who had no chance of testing it and knowing how fast it was actually going, there is usually nothing which can be done. The Justice reprimands the driver and that is the end of it."

Occasionally a car will drive through our Main street at a rate which should not be tolerated by the residents of any village and the old days when Officer Blodgett stood at the four corners were safer days for those who walk, than it has ever been since. Perhaps the only remedy is to step lively and keep our eyes open and our minds alert; even then, occasionally, some one takes a ride in the ambulance.
