BEAVER TRAPPING OPENS ON SUNDAY

Season to Last 17 Days—License Holders May Take Six Animals.

One trapping season—for mink—end Sunday; another, for beaver, will open and five days later the first of two separate closing dates for trapping muskrats will occur. Announcement to this effect was made today by the conservation department. The season on mink has been in effect since Nov. 5 and department spokesmen said that in their opinion it had been below the average of the last few years. Likewise, they characterized the muskrat season as definitely affected by drought conditions.

This year's beaver season will get under way Sunday, and continue thru the last day of the month permitting trappers a full 17 days. Counties in which they may be taken include Cattaraugus, Chemung, Chautauqua, Clinton, Columbia, Dutchess, Essex, Franklin, Fulton, Hamilton, Lewis, Orange, Rensselaer, Rockland, Saratoga, Schuyler, St. Lawrence, Warren and in those portions of the counties of Oswego, Oneida and Herkimer north of Route 57 from the city of Oswego to Fulton, Route 49 thence along the north shore of Oneida lake to Rome, Routes 46A and 12C to Trenton, Route 28 thence to Poland and Route 8 from Poland through Herkimer county via the villages of Ohio and Nobleboro to the Hamilton county line.

Each person possessing a New York state trapping license may take six beaver during the open season. Not more than 10 traps can be used by any trapper. Traps of the leg gripping type having teeth in the jaws or a greater spread than six inches cannot be used and traps shall not be set in such a manner that the beaver when caught shall be suspended alive. Each operator must have his name stamped on his traps and it must be legible at all times. Each trapper must visit his traps at least once every 24 hours. Beaver dams, houses, bank burrows or other abiding places shall not be molested or disturbed.

Pelts of all legally trapped beaver must be tagged by a game protector or forest ranger before they can be sold and all pelts must be tagged between March 15 and April 3. The tags are to remain attached to the beaver pelts until the skins have been tanned and made up into commercial fur.

A person cannot have in his or her possession any beaver or green or raw beaver pelts prior to March 15 or after April 3 which are not tagged as provided.

Drastic restrictions placed on beaver since the start of the century, according to conservation department officials, have been largely responsible for the remarkable comeback of one of the state's most valuable fur-bearing animals. Decision to have an open season again this year was reached after surveys in the more than 50 counties inhabited by beaver in this state. Last year 3,055 beavers were taken, a harvest worth more than $60,000 to 1,251 trappers.

The open season for mink is a general one throughout the state running from Nov. 5 to March 15—approximately 130 days. Between five and six thousand mink are trapped in New York state each year. The muskrat season which opened Jan. 1 covers two zones. In the northern zone which includes the county of Wayne and that portion of the state north of the main line tracks of the New York Central railroad from the eastern boundary line of Wayne county to Albany and north of the main tracks of the Boston & Albany railroad from Albany to the Massachusetts border, the season runs through April 20. In the rest of the state, the muskrat season closes March 20.

Dummy Periscope

A submarine torpedoman is shown here with a dummy "periscope," found floating near Pearl Harbor. Designed to lure army and navy patrols into wasting bombs, the device resembles the visual gear of a full-scale submarine. It is held upright in the water by means of coral weights and tin cans. This "sub" hoaxed nobody but the fish.

DEFENSE BONDS PROMOTE EMPLOYMENT THRIFT

J. M. Russum, chairman of the Lewis County Defense Savings committee, states that the sale of United States defense savings bonds through payroll deductions has become the most important medium for encouraging thrift in American industry. The United States treasury has estimated that more than 8,200 companies with approximately 9,750,000 employes have adopted payroll deduction plans or are making arrangements to do so.

All money accumulated for the purchase of bonds is held in a separate account.

Payroll deductions continue indefinitely. They are not discontinued when payments for one bond have been completed.

All industries and business places in the county are now being asked to adopt the payroll savings plan to purchase bonds for their employes.
