PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

This season neither time, money nor trouble has been spared to make Frear's stock of Albums complete in the true sense of the word. For immense assortment and low prices it is not surpassed by the largest metropolitan houses, Mr. Frear imports his goods direct and thereby controls many styles not shown by any other house. To get those things that are newest and most desirable in this line you should not fail to visit Frear's

In Fine Albums Mr. Frear is showing a magnificent line in Russia Leather, Seal, Turkey Morocco, Olive Wood, Plush, etc., at prices from $3 to $11, which is at least forty per cent. lower than that charged by other houses for the same goods if, indeed, they have them at all.

Frear offers a handsome Plush Album, with silk flower on cover, for $1.19. This Album is worth fully $1.75

Frear offers other grades at $1.38, $1.50 $1.75, $1 89.

At $2 Frear offers a regular gem, full-sized handsome Silk Plush, with the word "Portrait," or "Album" in nickel letters, with several in the designs. This would be a bargain at $3.

AUTOGRAPH ALBUMS.

Frear has Autograph Albums from 5c to $2 each. You cannot fail to find just what you want in this line at a most satisfactory price.

LOCAL MATTERS.

—The funeral of Dr. Charles G. Clark, who died suddenly on Wednesday, took place yesterday afternoon from the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church. The funeral was largely attended.

—The saloon of Edward McKenna at the foot of State street, was badly wrecked by fire early Friday morning. A valuable collection of crayon portraits was destroyed. Loss, $2,000.

—T. V. Powderly, General Master Workman of the Knights of Labor, will lecture at Rand's Opera House, Dec. 19, 1887, and it is hoped that every Knight in the city will be present to hear him.

—Mrs. Leonora M. Barry, general investigator of women's work of the Knights of Labor, will address the workingwomen of Troy at the City Hall, on Thursday evening, Dec. 22 1887. The lecture will be public and all are invited to be present.

—Ex-officer William McCarthy, who shot and killed Richard Doring in West Troy by mistake, and who was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to four years imprisonment, but later granted a new trial, has been admitted to bail in the sum of $6,000.

—Mill street and DeFreest avenue were in total darkness on Wednesday evening and caused much danger thereby among pedestrians and business wagons. Two of the latter came very near being wrecked. The darkness was caused by the wires of the Electric Light Company being in bad order. The company should be careful and not have any accidents caused by their negligence.

—The commission appointed two years ago to inquire as to a more humane method of capital punishment, expects to complete its report for the new legislature early in January. The commission consists of Elbridge T. Gerry of New York, Matthew Hale of Albany and Dr. Southwick of Buffalo. It is authoritatively stated that all agree on a system of electrical appliance to produce death instead of hanging, and they will so report.

—Three burglars had pried open the money drawer in John Edlington's store at the corner of Division and Second streets, early yesterday morning, and found the key to the safe. They had also got together a number of chickens and two quarters of lamb, and were intent on their plunder when one who was on guard caught sight of Officer Doran approaching, and all three jumped out of the door and ran like mad.

—The store of James B Hall, dry goods dealer at 322 River street, is now in the hands of Merritt & Ryan. Chattel mortgages to the amount of $9,738.58 held by parties in this city were foreclosed Wednesday. The mortgages were in favor of the N. T. Kane estate, Collins, Converse & Merrill, George Kirsop, Jr., and C. V. Collins. The amount of the one held by the Kane estate was the largest, $6,462.42. Mr Hall formerly kept the store corner of Broadway and Third street.

Labor Notes.

—Chicago coachmen have formed a union.

—Every printing office in Omaha is now in the union and business there is first class.

—An effort is being made to organize the several hundred female compositors of Boston.

—The Knights of Labor Co-operative Boot and Shoemakers Association is one of the institutions of Chicago.

—The city government of Providence has increased the pay of laborers in its employ to $1.75 a day.

—The Baldwin Locomotive Works are making fifteen locomotive engines a week and employ 2,700 men.

—The boycott is still on the Champion reapers, and the company still continues its war on organized labor.

—Bakers have sixty unions and 22,000 members, and the union label is put upon all bread baked by union bakers.

—Dennis Kearney says he has seen actual Chinese lepers making cigars in California for eastern consumption. The Knight of Labor label will protect you against catching the contagion.

—There is a movement on foot to organize a printing trades assembly of the Knights of Labor at Leavenworth, Kansas.

—District Assembly 24 Knights of Labor of Chicago has put itself on record as supporting the present administration of order and opposing anarchism.

—It is estimated that 36,670,000 yards of silk ribbon, equivalent to about 22,700 miles have been made in Patterson, N. J., during the past year.

—The convention of brass-workers of the United States at present members of the Knights of Labor is about to be held in Cleveland, Ohio, for the purpose of forming a national district.

—The Canadian Federal Labor Committee is making an extended investigation into the condition of persons employed in Canada in the agricultural, mining, lumber and fishing industries.

—A boycott decided upon by the Reading employes on Lehigh coal is being enforced. The North Pennsylvania Railroad was compelled to refuse the coal, owing to the crews on the road having refused to take out the trains from Bethlehem.

—The Knights of Labor Assembly at Winchenton, Mass., has been so closely watched and blacklisted that they had to make their meeting hour at 10 o'clock at night to avoid spotters. They have weathered the storm and now are flourishing.—The People.

The Dignity of Labor.

What a concurrent testimony is given by the entire universe to the dignity of toil. Things inanimate and things irrational combine with men and angels to proclaim the law of Him who made them all. The restless atmosphere, the rolling rivers and the heaving ocean, nature's vast laboratory, never at rest. Countless agencies in the heavens above, in the earth beneath and in the waters under the earth; the unwearied sun, coming forth from his chamber and rejoicing as a strong man to run a race; the changeful moon, whose never-slumbering influence the never-resting tides obey; the planets, never pausing in the mighty sweep of their majestic march; the sparkling stars, never ceasing to show forth the handiwork of Him who bade them shine; the busy swarms of insect life; the ant providing her meat in the summer and gathered her food in the harvest; the birds, exuberant in their flight, pouring forth their melody of song; the beasts of the forest, rejoicing in the gladness of freedom and activity; primeval man among the bowers of Eden; Paradise untainted by sin; fallen man, with labor still permitted him as an alleviation of his woe and an earnest of his recovery; redeemed man, divinely instructed, assisted, encouraged and honored in his toil; the innumerable company of angels, never resting in their service, never wearied in their worship; the glorious Creator of the universe, who neither slumbereth nor sleepeth; all, all bear testimony to the dignity of labor. Workingmen! walk worthy of your vocation; you have a noble escutcheon, disgrace it not. There is nothing low and mean but sin; step not down from your lofty pedestal to defile yourselves by contamination with intemperance licentiousness or any form of evil. Labor allied with virtue may look up to heaven and not blush, while all wordly dignities, prostituted to vice, will leave their owners not a corner of the universe in which to hide their shame. You will most successfully prove the honor of toil by illustrating in your persons its alliance with a sober, godly and righteous life. If, while thus laboring on earth, you anticipate the rest of heaven, and can say as a poor man once did, who, when pitied because of his humble lot, said, taking off his hat, "Sir, I am the son of a king, I am the child of God, and when I die angels will carry me from this union workhouse direct to the courts of heaven." Oh! when I have shown you such a spectacle, I will ask, is there not a dignity in labor? —Rev. Newman Hall.

Yet He Loved Her.

Man finds any amount of fault with a woman, yet works tooth and nail to get her. He calls her extravagant, yet yearns to pay her bills. She's heartless, yet he devotes months to finding the spot where that heart should be. She's fickle, yet he struggles for a place in her affections. She's timid, but he, noble creature, has courage for two. She's a fraud, but a darling. She's a goose, but a duck. She's snippy, and sweet. In fact, she's chameleon, in the very latest style of spots and dots and feathers and fixings. She's lithe and graceful and dainty and dear—and changeable as the wind. Yet she's a most desirable article of household furnishing, and there are mighty few men who want get along without her, chameleon—in a bustle—though she be.—San Francisco Report.

Fruits of Co-operation.

The moment a co-operative enterprise is spoken of, every croaker and monopolistic thief predicts failure. It may encourage co-operators to know that ten co-operative associations succeed to one individual enterprise; and it may be useful for monopolistic croakers to know that within ten years every department of production and distribution will be conducted upon co-operative principles and it may be of interest to wage-workers to know that those who first engage in co-operation will be the first emancipated.—Toledo News.

Relics of the Stone Age.

There have recently been discovered in the high Alps, near the summit of the great St. Bernard, five large granite altars and a number of other relics of the stone age, such as axes, knives, etc., used in the pagan epochs for sacrifices. Swiss writers emphasize the historical importance of this discovery, in that it is a proof that St. Bernard was a place of sacrifice in pagan times, and also that as far back as the age of stone the Canton Valais was inhabited by human beings.—Public Opinion.

A Prodigy.

Proud Father—I believe, my dear, that that baby knows as much as I do.

Mother (gazing at the infant)—Yes, poor little fellow.
