

ENTERTAINMENT

CAST OF "TWELFTH NIGHT" ANNOUNCED SHAKESPEARE COMEDY TO BE PERFORMED IN OCTOBER

BY LEANNE KINNEY
CO-ENTERTAINMENT EDITOR

The SUNY Masquers of Cortland would like to announce the cast for their first production of the season. The play will be William Shakespeare's famous comedy "Twelfth Night", directed by James C. Palmer. This romantic comedy will be performed in the main theatre of the Dowd Fine Arts Building on October 24 through the 27th.

"Twelfth Night" tells the story of a shipwrecked maiden, Viola, played by Janette Martinez, in mythical Illyria. She disguises herself as a servant to the Duke Orsino, played by Andrew Whelan. The Duke sends Viola to woo the lovely Olivia, played by Elizabeth Stone. To Viola's dismay, Olivia falls for her, not knowing she is actually disguised. Complications arise when Olivia's suitor Sir Andrew (Lee Barrett), her Uncle Toby Belch (Scott Koenig) and her steward Malvolio (Salvatore Cecere) become involved. Other characters in the play are Violas twin brother, played by Theodore Mancini; the meddling servant played by Sara Corica; and the mirthful clown Feste, played by Georgeanne Strakosch. Completing the cast are Robert Paredes, Bruce Delaney, Gordie Marsh II, Laurie Thomas, Jared Case and Jason Heuerman.

Tickets go on sale October 15th. Don't miss this one.

DID YOU EVER NOTICE...

People always push both buttons outside the elevator when they're really only going one way.

-Leanne Kinney

Two actors make "Greater Tuna" a success

By Keri McKay
Staff Writer

On September 7th and 8th, the Department of Theatre presented "Greater Tuna," a play by Jason Williams, Joe Sears, and Ed Howard. The play was shown in Dowd Fine Arts Center. "Greater Tuna" is a slapstick comedy which starred only two actors, Joseph R. McFate and Lee A. Barrett, both of whom played ten roles. This story is centered in a small town in Texas called Tuna. In the town live residents who thrive on local hearsay. Town residents want to do away with books "unsuitable" for schoolchildren, from Huckleberry

Finn to the dictionary, because of the corrupt ideas and words written in the books. Two main characters, Thurston Wheelis and Arles Struvie, run the local radiostation, OKKK, through which the trivial town communication is made possible and through which the story is brought full circle.

This year, there will be many performances in Dowd Fine Arts Center, both plays and concerts. The prices are reasonable and the shows are put on for you by aspiring actors and actresses. Next time check it out.

WHAT IS BOTH SIDES?

Hi! This is Joe and Leanne and we write the column "Both Sides" which debuted last week. "Both Sides" is an advice column, something like Ann Landers or Dear Abby (or Dr. Ruth). We're here to answer or assist you with any problems you may have concerning relationships and their surrounding problems. However, other advice columns give you only one person's opinion. "Both Sides" gives you an objective non-biased view of the situation from both a male and a female perspective. Thus the name - Both Sides.

Please drop off your letters addressed to Joe and Leanne at The Dragon Chronicle by Tues. Letters may be anonymous.

BOTH SIDES

BY LEANNE KINNEY AND
JOE DIMELLA
STAFF WRITERS

Dear Joe and Leanne,
How should I put this without making myself sound like a fool? I am madly in love with this guy I shall call John. John and I have been seeing each other for four months on and off. John is well aware of how I feel for him. The problem is he doesn't love me, and says he thinks he never will. All he says is that he cares for me a lot. We aren't even committed to each other. He shows me no affection in public and comes to see me when it's convenient for him. I know I sound like a fool but I love him so much and he's wonderful to me. I keep thinking that with some more time and patience he'll change. By the way, this is an on campus relationship. Will he ever change? Is there hope?

Signed
In Love

Dear In Love:

Joe: There's always hope but will he ever change? It depends on how he truly feels about you.

Leanne: But the way he acts obviously shows he doesn't care. He said it outright that he doesn't love you. Why waste your time? I say forget about it.

Joe: If he's not willing to change you're probably better off with someone else.

Leanne: I don't like how he refuses to show you affection. That would make me wonder how many other "friends" like you he has.

Joe: Good point. You might be happier with someone who can show you affection both in front of people and behind closed doors.

Leanne: Sorry hun, I just don't trust the guy. If I were you, I'd run the other way!

FACULTY ART DISPLAYED

SPECIAL TO THE DRAGON CHRONICLE

"1990 Biennale: Art Faculty Works" is an exhibition featuring current works by eight Art and Art History Department Faculty Members of S.U.N.Y. Cortland. This exhibit will be on display in the Dowd Fine Arts Gallery now through October 5th. Gallery hours are Tuesday through Saturday from 11:00 am to 4:00 pm. The display is free and everyone is welcome to attend.

Musician pleases Cortland crowd

By Alison Westover
Staff Writer

Jamie Notarthomas from Syracuse, entertained the Cortland College community on Mon. night, and those who were fortunate enough to get into the Tannery to see him, would agree that he was a hit. Even though there were a few minor technical difficulties with the sound equipment in the beginning, the crowd was well rewarded for the wait with Notarthomas' fantastic performance.

He played most of his own music, as well as a few songs from such artists as Cat Stevens, Bob Dylan, James Taylor, U2, and Peter Gabriel. He thrilled the crowd with performances of "Midnight Hour," and "Brown-eyed Girl," among other hits of the past.

Notarthomas also performed many of his own songs, which were terrific. The audiences' response made that clear. His work includes, "On My Own," "The Dead End," and "Goodbye" among others.

On some of the songs he performed he played a harmonica as well as a guitar, and his ability to master both of them led one to believe there was more than one person on stage.

For a few songs, Notarthomas was accompanied by his brother Jon, and base player, Scott Schimpff. Both of them added finishing touches to the energetic and wonderful performance.

Overall it was a great show and I hope we are fortunate enough to have Jamie Notarthomas come back and entertain again.

Jamie Notarthomas wowed 'em at the Tannery Monday night. Photo by Tom Walsh.

"You said he sits on this thing every morning and lays eggs. This doesn't look like eggs."

"Internal Affairs": a B+ Gere - Corrupt to the core

By Dave Parrish
Staff Writer

This week's SAB movie, "Internal Affairs" stars Richard Gere as a corrupt-to-the-core cop, and Andy Garcia as a cop out to stop him. This movie steadily gains momentum and intensity to provide a nail-biting conclusion. Gere is coming back strong this year and he is EVIL in this film (unlike he role in "Pretty Woman"). Also featured is some great cinematography, outstanding moody music, and good supporting performances by the ladies, Nancy Travis and Laurie Metcalf.

Final Grade: B+

SAB will show "Internal Affairs" Friday at 7 & 9:30 pm in the Corey Union Function Room. For only $1 with student I.D.? What a bargain!

WE NEED YOUR POETRY

Once again The Dragon Chronicle is accepting poetry from anyone who wishes to have it published.

Show your creativity!

Express your emotions!

Drop off poetry at The Dragon Chronicle office in the envelope outside our door.

Also...

We need your jokes, stories, anecdotes, campus gripes, and personals.