

SCENE OF THE FIRE — SKETCHED BY "DRIFTS" SPECIAL ARTIST.

a bureau in which was Mrs. Guese's pocketbook. The fireman carried this out and she got her pocket-book. Constable Anderson took her into the saloon and opened the till in which the money was kept, but only one cent was found. She was asked by the constable if she wanted the liquor. She told them no, they could drink it.

Upon receipt of this news another of our constables proceeded to help carry out the beer by the box, and many bystanders freely indulged.

A keg of beer was carried out, but it was ordered back again by the owner.

Very few firemen indulged and those not to excess.

More about the Fire in our next issue.

CH