

Farm and Garden.

HOW TO MAKE A BEE-HIVE.

Take an inch plank (let it be smooth) six inches square for the bottom; make out of the center a piece six inches square; cover this with wire cloth. Make a slide for the under side, so as to give ventilation, according to the season.

Next is a covering for the top: put this on with hinges, on the front side, for the cover, for bottom and top, one inch wide, bottom piece, fifteen inches long; top piece, two inches longer, extending one inch over each end piece when nailed together.

DEPRECIATION OF THE GRUB - HOW TO PREVENT IT.

The grub is working mischief with the corn. Some fields are almost entirely desolated. This is rather unexpected, following so severe a winter.

The CURRANT WORM - Dr. Worcester says the currant-worm, so destructive to a favorite fruit, may be fully and almost immediately destroyed by the use of a carbonate of lime.

AN Iowa fruit-raiser thus describes his process for raising strawberries of any given variety from seed.

LARGE FARMS IN KANSAS - The largest farm in the world is, according to the Louisville paper, that of Mr. George Grant, founder of Victoria Colony, Kansas.
