

Senator McDonald, of Indiana, has been looking over the field in Ohio, and is confident that the Democrats will win.

Hon. Geo. B. Dusenberry accepts the nomination for Secretary of State and indorses the platform of the late State Convention of Prohibitionists.

Deputy State Treasurer Aggar has made a formal demand upon Denison, Belden & Company for the return to the Treasury of $417,371, unlawfully obtained through canal contracts.

Suspicious—the Republican press of the State are just now united in praising Mr. Fenton, and if the Governor has not an idea of returning to the Radical fold he should see the Grant press for damages.

Gov. Tilden has instructed the attorney general to bring suits against contractors Denison and Belden to recover moneys they have fraudulently obtained from the State.

Matt Carpenter asserts his belief that Grant will be the candidate of the republican party next year on a hard money platform.

New York Presidential candidates are getting very plenty. Ex-Governor E. D. Morgan is put out as Penn Yan Journal, and Senator Cookling appears to the Horseheads Journal as the only man who is entirely equal to the same position.

In Mississippi the Democrats have nominated their ticket, headed by Hon. W. C. Hemmingway, for State Treasurer. The platform adopted is mainly confined to state matters, recognizes to the fullest extent the civil and political equality of all men, and asks the aid and assistance of the voters of all parties of both races, in the establishment of good government. The color line is wholly ignored.

Pennsylvania democratic congressmen, who have been actively supporting the candidacy of the Hon. Samuel J. Randall for the speakership of the house of representatives, confirm the statement recently made by the Philadelphia correspondent of the New York Tribune as to his strength. They say that they regard the contest as virtually decided already, and that Mr. Randall can count on very nearly one hundred votes on the first ballot in caucus. As the whole number of democratic votes is one hundred and seventy-five, this would give him a clear majority and nearly a dozen votes to spare.

The Democrats of Oregon have nominated LaFayette Lane, a young lawyer, and son of Gen. Joseph Lane, for Congress. They adopted an excellent platform, one that has a good old Democratic ring. It contains provisions in favor of State rights, the payment of the public debt, resumption of specie payments, and legislative control of railroad fares and freight, demands reform in all departments, currency, National Banks, Chinese immigration, fraud and corruption in office. We believe the Democracy of that state must succeed, with such a popular platform.

We publish this week the election notice. There are to be elected this year a secretary of state, comptroller, state treasurer, attorney general, state engineer and surveyor, canal commissioner in place of Stroud, inspector of state prisons in place of Graves, a justice of the supreme court in the place of Hon. Lefroy Morgan, a state senator, member of assembly, two school commissioners, a county treasurer in place of A. D. Marshall, two justices of sessions in place of Lamberson and Snell. The election takes place on the 21 of November.

The new census of New York city is yet incomplete, but enough is known to make safe the estimate that the population is about a million and a quarter, and that of Brooklyn a half a million. Add to these figures the population of Jersey City, Hoboken, Newark, and many other towns whose populations have their day residence in New York, and a city of two millions of souls struggles for existence on Manhattan Island. The population of London by the census of 1870 was 3,214,707 persons; that of Paris by the census of 1867, 1,879,462 persons; Constantinople, 1,075,000 by the census of 1864. New York proper will therefore rank next after Paris, and leaving out the cities of China, is now the third city in the world in population.

TRUE AS GOSPEL.

In a recent speech at Rome, N. Y., that heroic champion of Reform, Walter D. Pierce, Esq., of Utica, referred to Governor Tilden's crusade against the canal thieves as follows: "His fidelity to Official Accountability, to the establishment of honesty, is no longer a matter of faith, but of sight. There is his work in the Statutes of the State, and in his vetoes, He said he would go for the thieves, and he has done it. That this is true, one fact alone establishes: Every Ring Thief in the State is Governor Tilden's enemy! These men are not fools; they see that if the Governor is allowed to go on in this way, the business of stealing will not be worth a Continental!"

IMPORTANT INTIMATION. The Utica Observer announces with all the force of italics and editorial prominence that "We feel authorized to say that if the Canal Ring derive any comfort from the repeated assertions of the Republican press that 'Governor Tilden's warfare is a failure, they would better enjoy that comfort while they can. The lightning will strike in a few days.'"

Two important concurrent resolutions proposing amendments to the state constitution are to be submitted to the legislature to be elected this fall, and if they should be concurred in by a majority of all the members elected to house and senate, will be submitted to the popular vote in 1876. The first is an amendment to section three of article five, creating the office of Inspector of Public Works, which officer shall be appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the senate. His duties will be to execute all laws in relation to the repair, navigation, construction and improvement of the canals, except such as shall be confided to the State Engineer and Surveyor. When this amendment is adopted, and the Superintendent of Public Works shall have been appointed and qualified, the office of Canal Commissioner will be abolished. The second resolution proposes an amendment to section four of article five of the constitution, and creates the office of Superintendent of State Prisons, for the term of five years, who shall have all the powers and perform all the duties of Inspector of State Prisons; and when such Superintendent shall be appointed and qualified, the office of Inspector shall be abolished.

UTICA PARK RACES.—The fourth annual meeting of the Utica Park Association will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. The premiums aggregate $35,000. The entries are very numerous, and include some of the finest favorite and field horses in the country. The numbers of the various classes are as follows: 2:28, 15; 2:24, 12; 2:20, 14; 2:18, 4; 2:35, 2; 2:31, 9; 2:27, 10; free for all, 3; 2:34, 12—total 86. A glance at the list will satisfy anyone that the contest will be warm. The track is in excellent order, a new free stand has been erected and many other improvements are being made for the meeting. If the weather is pleasant the attendance will be large.

And now they have got to robbing mails in Canada. How fast fashions are learned! Postmaster King's evil influence on his short visit to Quebec is now bearing fruit: "King's evil" is a good name for it.

A BALTIMORE FLYING MACHINE.—A young gentleman of this city, unnamed, but of the name of Icarus, has invented a flying machine, in which he proposes to cross the ocean during the present summer. The machine appears to be a combination of the balloon, the windmill and the steam-launch. The voyager rides in a boat containing a small steam engine, which is used for moving the "wings" of the balloon and steering it through the air. The boat is attached to the flying machine with a rope, and thus is drawn through the water. A merchant of this city will furnish the inventor, Mr. Schreiner, with the material, and the contract for the same has already been given out.

A correspondent of the Boston Globe paid a visit to Thomas Carlyle, and gives the following description of how the distinguished Scotch thinker looks and talks: "He was dressed in a long, gray, monkish-looking morning gown, and was evidently engaged in reading, and I noticed that the two volumes before him were Motley's United Netherlands. He did not look so old as I supposed, and the ravages of time were principally noticeable in the feeble shaking of his hands. His face, though furrowed, was fresh and rosy, his gray eye piercing and full of luster, and his head was covered with a strong crop of thick iron-gray hair." During the conversation, Mr. Carlyle was cheerful and ardent, and spoke of his health, which has become impaired by continuous application to business.

I have recently suffered the loss, by death, of my only brother, upon whom I was accustomed to greatly rely as an assistant and adviser. His death devolves upon me additional responsibilities and care for my aged parents, now verging upon fourscore years of age—which I cannot neglect, and had it not been for my urgent solicitation of friends, that I should at least fill out the term for which I had been elected, I would have resigned my office several months ago.

HON. DIEDRICH WILLERS, JR.

He "Positively Declines a Renomination." From the Poughkeepsie Daily News. We publish the declination of the present Secretary of State with sincere regret. His letter will be read with a sorrow which will reach beyond the boundaries of the Democratic Liberal party, whose efficient servant he has been. Men of his class who are prepared to accept the burdens of office are few, and none will be found who will discharge its duties with a higher degree of efficiency and conscientiousness. He has never obtruded his personality upon the public, but has devoted himself with entire self-forgetfulness, to the interests of the State. Attentive, honest, conciliatory, intelligent, approachable and unostentatious, he is marked with peculiar emphasis for the conspicuous and responsible office which he has held, and more especially at a time when there has grown up a national distrust of men in prominent places. No man has ever questioned the integrity of his purpose or of his action.

There was never a time when Willers, and men like him were more needed in all the offices of the State. Of the cogency of his reasons for declining to be a candidate this fall, when neither himself or any of his partisans can doubt his re-election, no one can judge so well as himself. The public has no right to insist upon the services of an officer to the peril and sacrifice of his health, or of his individual interests, but if these might permit, we can have no doubt that the party in this portion of the State would most cheerfully, and with the utmost unanimity, give him their suffrages in the coming State convention, and at the polls. But, as a candidate for office, an officer, or a private citizen, Mr. Willers may be assured of a share of the public confidence and respect, which might justly be a source of pride to the most eminent man in the Commonwealth.

We append his letter to the consideration of the people of the State, with the entire assurance that we have not over estimated either the character, or the services, of one of our best, most attentive, and reliable public men.

OFFICE OF THE SECY OF STATE. ALBANY, N. Y., July 31, 1875. Editor of the Poughkeepsie News:

DEAR SIR: In the issue of your paper of the 29th inst. you speak of my discharge of official duty in very kind terms, and advocate my re-nomination for Secretary of State by the Democratic party, in the ensuing political canvass, for which friendly expression you have my sincere thanks. Of the success of the party in the State ticket, by a large majority, at the election to be held this fall, (with a Democratic Legislature) I entertain no doubt. Not only the masses of the Democratic party, but many independent voters, will, I believe, heartily endorse the present Government, and warmly sustain Governor Tilden in the work of reform which he has inaugurated.

While I believe it to be the right, under our form of government, of any citizen to engage in an honorable canvass for public office, and to accept of nomination when he believes it to be his duty to do so.

The duties of my office during my term have been exceedingly laborious. The Secretary of State (in addition to the immediate daily routine duties of his office, which are increasing from year to year, with the growth of the State in population and wealth, and the imposition of new duties by the Legislature), is a member of the Canal Board, of the Commissioners of the Land Office, a Commissioner of the Canal Fund, of the State Board of Education, of the State Board of Charities, of the Regents of the University, and a member of minor boards.

During the first year of my term, the Executive and Legislative departments of the government, were in the hands of the political opposition, and the appointment of a large number of the State officers chosen in 1873, by the Democrats and Liberals, had a bare majority in the Canal Board, which rendered very constant attendance at Albany necessary.

Besides, the submission and passage of the Constitutional Amendment, added quite materially to the many questions constantly submitted for examination.

Under the provisions of our Constitution and Laws, a State Census is taken during the present year—and the preparation of forms and blanks, the appointment of a large number of enumerators (about 2,700), with the general oversight of so important a work, has devolved upon me arduous duties, which will continue during and beyond this year.

With the close of the present year I shall have terminated fourteen years of the service of the State, in the various gradations from clerk to the head of a department.

I am admonished by physicians, that I need rest and relaxation from the cares of official duties so pressing and arduous, to restore my health, which has become impaired by continuous application to business.

I have recently suffered the loss, by death, of my only brother, upon whom I was accustomed to greatly rely as an assistant and adviser.

His death devolves upon me additional responsibilities and care for my aged parents, now verging upon fourscore years of age—which I cannot neglect, and had it not been for my urgent solicitation of friends, that I should at least fill out the term for which I had been elected, I would have resigned my office several months ago.

ALL SORTS.

—Squirrels are again devastating the grain fields of California. —Alabama has voted, by 15,000 majority to call a constitutional convention. —William T. Pelton has been appointed Military Secretary by Gov. Tilden, with the rank of Colonel. —Children are dying in New York at the rate of 100 a day from cholera infantum.

MOHAWK VALLEY NOTES.

From the Albany Argus. —The Prohibitionists of Montgomery county propose to hold a nominating convention at Fonda on the 21st, during which meeting a district preference ticket will be nominated and possibly receive a hundred votes at the election November 2. These temperance men are at least persevering, but temperance and politics too often fail to affiliate.

—It appears that a Jim' A. Pink, of Johnston, has got into some temporary difficulty. He was recently an inmate of a State prison, and after serving his term, he voted at an election without having first been restored to citizenship. He is now being prosecuted before the United States Commissioner Hess, of Canajoharie, for the offense.

It is authentically reported that James Bates, of St. Johnsville, late proprietor of the Skaneateles Junction iron foundry and several farms near the town of Fonda, has failed for $96,000. Of the cogency of his reasons for declining to be a candidate this fall, when neither himself or any of his partisans can doubt his re-election, no one can judge so well as himself.

An article is going the rounds of the local newspapers over the letters of "F. G.," in which it is stated that the 25 cents is levied upon all Mohawk Valley is about 400 acres less than it was in 1874. Such is an error, growers claim, for the acreage is acknowledged to be at least 500 acres larger than it was last year.

Articles on agriculture written by persons who have no practical knowledge of the subjects, work more injury than they do good. —The next national exposition of fine arts, productions of agriculture and horticulture, mechanism, minerals, latest inventions, &c., will commence at Rome, in Georgia, October 4, and continue until October 9, next.

An old Indian chief declares that John D. Lee was the moving spirit in the Mountain Meadow massacre, and that Lee is a great coward, and wants to shift the blame on to some one else's shoulders. —The floods now prevailing in Ohio have done an unprecedented amount of damage to the crops, thousands of acres of which are apparently irrevocably ruined. The deluge is believed to have done this worst.

A free eye and ear infirmity is to be established in the Town of Troy. Dr. C. A. Robertson, of Albany, has been appointed surgeon by the association. It is contemplated to add other departments to the dispensary.

The Saratoga Rowing Association will hold its annual international amateur regatta, the 31st inst., provided the requisite funds are obtained. The same will be the same as last year, with the exception of the single scull race, which is omitted.

It has been discovered that Belle Pierce, who was found drowned at Buffalo, Friday, had been murdered and thrown into the canal by her paramour, John F. Freeburg, who is still at large.

Judge Wallace has granted an order authorizing the assignees of the People's Savings Bank of Utica to commence a suit against the stockholders to obtain the unpaid balances due the depositors, aggregating about $130,000.

A meeting of the Republican State Committee is called, to be held at the Fifth Avenue hotel, in New York, on Wednesday next, August 12th, for the purpose of fixing the time and place for holding the Republican State convention.

On Sunday a Utica priest warmed his people against strange imposters traveling about in the garb of monks and nuns, collecting money for imaginary purposes. He stated that no clergymen or other persons are authorized to make appeals for any purpose within the diocese of Central New York, unless they have written certificates from the Bishop.

They are getting pretty sensitive in Saratoga, Pa. An editor recently published the experience of a gentleman, who believed himself to be bewitched by a sorcerer, and the gentleman brought a suit for libel against the editor. The latter, however, was discharged after a brief hearing.

Thirty-one mills are closed at Dundee, Scotland, and twelve thousand persons are out of employment. Both the employers and operatives have held meetings and resolved not to yield. If the strike should extend to all the mills in that district, thirty thousand persons would be out of employment.

The newest object of interest at Niagara is a steep hill and cliff called the "Ragged Edge." It is a favorite place for gentlemen to take their wives' motor, and it is very dangerous. "This way to the Ragged Edge," shouts the guide. Then the people on the hotel piazza "step down and out."

There is the best representative of "misanthropic Christianity" at Hampton Falls, N. H., that we ever heard of. Recently a preacher there dismissed the Sabbath school, took off his coat and helped to gather a field of grain which was in danger of being spoiled by an approaching storm.

There are over 2,700 varieties of apples known by over 1,800 names, 2,200 of pear, 200 of cherries, 50 of plums, 800 of our native grapes, 50 of currants, 80 of blackberries, according to a counting up of somebody. Quite an interesting bit of statistics, surely.

THE DAIRY MARKET.

LTTELLE FALLS, Aug. 9, 1875. The market took one of its singular turns today. In the forenoon everything was as usual. Dairies sold at $12.10 for good; $10.10 to $11.10 for fair. Early in the afternoon a few factories were offered 13c and 12c. One man knew more of the market, and had closed out the Columbia County. Other dairies offered 12c and 13c for something to turn up. Something did turn up. Telegrams came from New York, announcing the suspension of an extensive shipper, Archibald Baxter and its depressing influence on the N. Y. market. Buyers who had before been buying in purchases of 100,000 lbs., were now dropping to 15c and 16c. I think a few lot 13c, but most salesmen having the ground went home without selling. At least 100,000 lbs. were offered, and not over five or six thousand sold. The day was very hot and everything unfavorable. I look for a good day next Monday, and here is my forecast. J. D. H.
