SONG.—"St. Patrick's Day in the Morning."
—BY R. HUMPHREYS, Esq.—

YE sons of sweet Ireland, remember your dear land,
While whiskey and gladness your faces adorn;
Hail the land of potatoes, though graining in fetters,
Saint Patrick's day in the morning.
While British oppression is highly in fashion,
To make us all rove from our dear native land,
Or enter their navy, and fall for old Davy,
With cheeks red as cherry, we'll drink & be merry,
Saint Patrick's day in the morning.

Ah! my dear honies, how many brave cronies,
Their peepers have clos'd by the vile hempen string;
Or in gore have lain bleeding, while striving for freedom,
Saint Patrick's day in the morning.
How mothers' fat mourning, while cottages burning—
Sweet maidens bewailing for injuries done;
Such deeds would disparage the name of a savage;
Though vengeance doth slumber these things we'll remember,
Saint Patrick's day in the morning.

With a bumper of brandy we'll toast our peerland,
With love of old Ireland his heart kindly burn'd
He thought with assistance to come from a distance,
Saint Patrick's day in the morning.
But Britons in red coats, with some Irish cut throats,
Defining to rob us of all we enjoy,
With bloody intention did weck their invention—
By fire, rape and murder, did spread wild disorder,
Saint Patrick's day in the morning.

Though Grattan and Curran, with Emmet—all our men,
Whose virtues and talents our land did adorn—
Did strive to relieve us, yet others did grieve us,
Saint Patrick's day in the morning.
Though soldiers and Lordships reduce us by hardships,
The day may yet come, when Hibernia's brave sons,
May find one to lead 'em, to regain their freedom,
When plenty and pleasure will flow without measure,
Saint Patrick's day in the morning.

Then fill to sweet Erin, that land so dear, dear land,
To all who in sadness their country bemoan;
We'll drive away sorrow, no trouble we'll borrow,
Saint Patrick's day in the morning.
Next fill to the land of freedom and peace—
May treason and tyranny never flourish there;
May Barr and his fellows just peep at a gallows,
For planning defection and vile insurrection,
Saint Patrick's day in the morning.

TO THE EDITOR.

SIR,
As it may be interesting to the public to know the particulars of captain Ichabod Sneath's throwing over the Turk's in the Mediterranean, from on board the schooner Mary-Ann, after having been captured by an Algerine frigate of 44 guns and being in their possession four days, I have procured them as correctly as I could, and now lay the same before the public through the medium of your paper, hoping he and his brave companions, who so justly merit the bounty of their countrymen, may not go unrewarded for risking their lives in so desperate an undertaking. Yours, &c. A SUBSCRIBER.

On the 29th of October last, within the straits of Gibraltar, saw a sail in the northward. On her bearing down she proved to be a frigate with English colors. After firing three shots, which fell near us, the schooner hove to. When along side they hauled down the English colors and hoisted the bloody flag. They sent on board their boat, and took out the captain and three men. After three hours detention, the boat returned with the captain on board the schooner, accompanied by nine Algerines, all armed, who steered direct for Algiers. Being in their possession upwards of 90 hours, the captain held a consultation with the mate and cook; when fearing that they should never again see the United States they chose rather to die than submit as slaves for life to Turkish tyranny.—The vessel at this time, was within three miles of the land, and in sight of the shipping in the harbor of Algiers. Accordingly the cook was stationed at the pump and mate at the cabin door, when the captain threw the grains into the sea. Four of the Turks went to the side to see if he had caught a fish. The captain then seized the prize-master and threw him over board, the mate at the same time seized the one next to him, and did the like; the cook then came to their assistance, and they threw over the third. The remaining six attacked them very furiously with handspikes. The captain clinched the second prize-master and threw him into the sea, while the mate and cook killed two.—Of the remaining three, two who refused to submit were killed; one they preserved and carried safely into Naples, where the vessel fortunately arrived after six days. During the contest the captain and mate received several desperate blows from the Turks; and while they were on board they compelled the captain and mate to go aloft and assist in navigating the vessel.

AMERICAN UNIFORM.

The Secretary at War has issued a public notice to the officers of the additional regular troops that the following is the uniform by which they are to be distinguished.

The LIGHT ARTILLERY to be similar to that of the old regiment of artillery, now in service, with the following exceptions. The coats to be nine inches shorter in the skirts, and leather caps instead of hats, with blue feathers tipped with red.

The LIGHT DRAGOONS—a deep blue coat, or jacket with blue facings, cuffs and collar trimmed with white, blue pantaloons, seams edged with white, white waistcoats and leather caps or helmets, with blue feathers, tipped with white.

The INFANTRY uniform will not differ from that of the old regiments, now in service, excepting the figure on the buttons, which will designate the number of the regiment.

The RIFLE REGIMENT in addition to the summer dress, (which will be a rifle stock and linen pantaloons,) will be a coat and pantaloons of bright green cloth. The coat with skirts of eleven inches from the hip button; the facings, cuffs and collars to be black, trimmed with yellow; the seams of the pantaloons edged with yellow; white waistcoats and light leather caps, with green feathers, tipped with black.

The feathers of privates not to exceed ten inches in length.

From the National Intelligencer.

Our city has been honored for a few days past with the presence of a CHINESE Mandarin and Merchant, with his secretary. His object in visiting this place is to obtain an exemption from the restrictions of the embargo, so far as to be permitted to charter a vessel for China, to carry back his property collected in this country to the amount of forty or fifty thousand dollars. There are we hear, various circumstances of a very peculiar nature connected with this request. One of these, as characteristic of national modes of thinking, is worth stating. The Mandarin's father being ninety years old, his death may be daily looked for. According to the usages of the disciples of Confucius, of which he is one, his remains, in case of his death, cannot be interred, in the absence of his son, in less than seven years. This necessarily renders his son very anxious to return.

Their physiognomy, dress and manners are very peculiar and interesting. Their dress & external characters correspond exactly with the representations of the Statuary and painter; the leading characteristics of their countenance and manners are gravity, benevolence and mildness.

We understand that the ship Beaver, belonging to John J. Affor, of this city, has got permission to take out to China the Mandarin Chief and his Secretary, who have been detained in this country ever since the embargo was laid.—N. Y. paper.

During the thunder storm which passed this town June 30, five young men who were at labor in the meadows, for security from the rain, placed themselves in a recumbent posture under their waggon; and in that situation were struck with lightning. All of them received a severe shock, and their flesh scorched in different parts of the body—two of them from ten to fifteen minutes appeared to have been killed; but after removing them from under the waggon, and feverently shaking them, the first symptom of recovery was puking. Upon examining their bodies, one of them was burnt on both thighs, just below the hip joint, as large as a man's hand—the other just below the right shoulder blade, of equal size, in appearance like the burns from a red hot iron. When the dead flesh separated it left a cavity, from one third to half an inch in depth. In other parts of their bodies, and limbs, there was the appearance of a discharge of shof, that sprinkled in various directions, and destroying the flesh sufficiently deep to have buried them.

They are now in a fair way of recovery.—No injury was done to the waggon, neither could it be discovered where the lightning entered the earth.—Hampshire Gaz.

His Swedish majesty has commenced one of the grandest internal improvements that any country has displayed in the present times;—viz. to connect the North and Baltic seas together, through the heart of Sweden, by means of a canal (large enough for vessels usually navigating the Baltic Sea) which will commence at Soderkoping, in the Baltic sea, pass along to the lakes Koxen, the Welteru and the Wiken into the Winern Lake, from whence the navigation is already complete down to Gottenburgh.—Lond. paper.

An ingenious German physician has calculated that the number of deaths throughout the universe amounts to 25,000 every minute.
