

The great loss of the TEETH prevented
By DR. CHAVALIER,
SURGEON DENTIST.

WHO begs leave to inform the ladies and gentlemen of this place, that he has taken lodging for a few days, next door but one above H. C. Sleight's Printing Office, where he offers his services in the various branches of his profession, from 6 in the morning until 6 in the afternoon. He does not pretend to work miracles! neither is it necessary that he should puff in a pompous way, as many are in the habit of doing—but assures his patrons that perfect satisfaction shall be given.

Dr. C. extracts decayed or loose Teeth, and puts sound ones in their places, and makes them grow fast, which he is continually in the habit of doing with great success; or repairs the decayed ones, and places them in again. Dr. C. within the last year, has extracted more than twelve hundred teeth, without breaking any; and does not hesitate to say, that his knowledge and skill in that very interesting practice (in which all are deeply, and sometimes painfully interested) is not inferior to any on earth.

He will wait on ladies and gentlemen at their places if required.

To the respectable indigent, he offers his services gratuitously.

Dr. C. has an infallible cure for the tooth-ach, without extracting it.

He refers in the village of Jamaica to the Rev. A. Nettleton, and Rev. G. H. Sayre.

To the foregoing, he adds the certificates of a number of gentlemen of respectability, which it is presumed will carry more weight in the public estimation than all he can say respecting himself.

We, the undersigned, recommend to general patronage Dr. Chavalier, as a very ingenious and skilful Dentist. He makes his own instruments, and knows well how to use them.—Rev. Mr. Feltus; R. Hatfield, J. D. Fay, N. B. Graham, E. Morrel, Esquires; Messrs. J. Cocks, J. Boardman, T. Lownds, J. Everett, Med. Elee. 43 Chatham-st. and J. Hays, H. C. New-York, July 30, 1826.

Dr. C.'s permanent residence is 22 Warren-st. New-York, opposite the Park.

Doctor Chavalier, Surgeon Dentist, of the city of New-York, having for some time past practised extensively in the port of Sag Harbor, and its vicinity; and, having, we believe, given very general satisfaction to his employers, we beg leave to recommend him to the public, as, in our estimation, a careful and skilful operator.—J. D. Gardner, Pastor P.P.; J. P. Osborn, Judge C.C.P.; A. H. Gardner, Sheriff S.C.; Col. S. Huntington; H. T. Dering, Collector; E. Sage, Esq. Sag Harbor, Dec. 14, 1822. Jamaica, Sept. 13, 1826. 37—1w
