The Palladium

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THIS CITY.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1884.

Making it Warm for Salvationists.

On Wednesday evening, about a dozen members of the Syracuse skeletonize paraded the streets with music, (?) and were arrested for violating the city ordinance. The following day they were granted a jury trial and were acquitted. Presuming on this good fortune, they determined to make a parade on Thursday evening and did so, sending out a detachment consisting of Jessy Wilton, Margaret Hogan, Mary Gorse, Nellie Smith, and Anna Lamphier. They were arrested immediately on the charge of breach of the peace. The their predecessors they were granted a jury trial, but contrary to their fears, they were all found in their favor, and they were sentenced to pay a fine of $15 or spend fifteen days in the jail. Nothaving the former they took the latter. Last evening a third detachment, consisting of Nellie Kennedy, Lucy Thayer, M. H. Cook, Thomas Lyons, Emma Whitman and C. B. Tait, again paraded the streets. They were promptly arrested by officers Riley and O'Brien, who led them while singing and shouting to the cooler.
