CONSISTENCY

The Newburgh News has a grudge against Governor Smith. Hardly a day goes by that it does not indulge in some expression of ill will.

The other day, fault was found with the governor because he went fishing. This week, the News had a pain in the stomach because Mr. Smith used the expression "Treat 'em rough" and "give 'em the raspberry" in a speech at Poughkeepsie the other day. On that occasion, the governor was referring to the grafters at Washington, and they certainly should be treated rough for it is rough treatment they have given the people of the United States, who put their trust in them.

The News took the position, though, that such language was undignified for a person holding the office of Governor of the State of New York and that Mr. Smith is lacking in the respect which the great office should command.

A certain gentleman, prominent in the Republican councils this campaign, passed through New York yesterday on his way to make a campaign speech at Augusta, Me. Alighting from a train to change cars, he was asked by picture men to pose. "Hell'n Maria" exploded the visitor. The man was finally persuaded to pose, however, but at the critical moment, he changed his mind and said: "Hell, they're not going to make a damned movie man out of me." "Hell'n Maria. I didn't come here to pose for the movies."

That man was Charles G. Dawes, whom the Newburgh News is booming for Vice-President of the United States.

MAKING HAY

Thunder storms frequently interfere with the plans of thrifty farmers and some times they are an ill wind to Republican politicians. Such a storm was that which occurred in the hills of Vermont Thursday afternoon.

The President of the United States is spending a few days of well-earned rest on his old ancestral home. Just beyond his father's home lives a neighbor who has been late in getting in his hay. Eager for a few hours work at the thing he did when a boy, the President offered to help. His muscles are not as hard as they once were, but it would seem like old times.

Helping a neighbor to get his hay in is a very ordinary matter in the life of the farmer, but when a political party is in sore need of the farm vote in the agrarian west it becomes an exceedingly important matter. And it is still more important when the man pitching the hay is the candidate for President of the United States. So the stage was all set with its accompanying sentiment of rural neighborliness, and the moving picture machines were there, and wise politicians were in blissful anticipation of the effect, when the farmers of the west went to the movies in the usual show places, or were entertained by a moving picture after a campaign speech. The sight of their candidate caught in the act of a real dirt farmer would surely have its appeal.

But their plans went wrong. The storm came and wet the hay. It was a disappointment to the Coolidge neighbor, but he has probably had that experience before. It was a greater disappointment to the politicians, however, but they are still determined that the great west shall see the President in action and the stage is set again.

Commenting on picturing Mr. Coolidge's hay making, the Newburgh News says that "it is safe to say that the phonographs will be released by the Republican national committee without Mr. Coolidge's sanction. He is not the kind of a man knowingly indulging in grandstand or any other kind of acting. He is modest and unassuming, plain and unaffected."

The average man is at liberty, of course, to believe that or not. But we all know that Mr. Coolidge is an astute politician and we all know the Republicans are worried over the farm vote of the west. So they probably all believe that it is good to make hay while the sun shines.

When a fool has nothing to say he is never satisfied until he says it.

An acquaintance of ours was giving little Johnny a moral lecture: "You should always be exceedingly careful about your conduct. I want you never to do anything which you would be ashamed to have the world see you doing."

The youngster let out a whoop of delight and turned a hand-spring in his exuberance. "What in the world is the matter with you? are you crazy? demanded his mother.

"No'm" was the answer. "I'm just glad 'cause you don't expect me to take baths any more."

The most indefinite number, according to Old Sport is "several fish."

Sentry—Halt! who goes there? Answer—Moses. Sentry—Advance and give the ten commandments.

There was once a lady named Eve, who caused father Adam to grieve, when he asked where she'd been, she replied with a grin, "I've been absent without any leave."

The fellow who gets along is the one who keeps going all the time.

Elinor Glyn's advice to girls to "cling to your youth with all your will" plainly shows that Elinor hasn't been watching 'em at dances.

The first saxophone was made in 1846 and some people haven't seen the joke yet.

A wooden-head clerk is dear at $3 a week. A good clerk is cheap at any price.

This isn't what it was cracked up to be, said the young lady as she broke open a hollow walnut.

The bachelor is unfortunate, thinks Jud Tunkins he has no home to stay away from.

A brakeman got credit for joining the circus. All he did was connect the freight cars together.

Shoe shine gives us polish, Sun shine gives us tan, Moon shine makes us foolish, No matter who it am.

Everything has some good features, thinks Ima Nutt, even the squeak in a porch swing—for it drowns out the noise of the smacks.

A hope chest may have its uses but our opinion is that a vain case usually gets quicker results.

The most disastrous result of the radio fad that has been called to our attention is that of the young couple who were being married by wireless and got their wave-lengths crossed with a couple in Pittsburgh.

NO TROUBLE It's such a bother deciding where to go on your vacation. It doesn't bother me. The boss tells me when to go and the wife tells me where.

SCREENLAND

What the producers say about films to be shown at local theatres.

NEW THEATRE

Comedy and Intensity of Drama in New Ray Film.

Advance reports from Charles Ray's picture for United Artists, "The Girl I Loved," indicate that it excels in power and interest anything that this sterling artist and popular screen personality has ever done. It will be the special feature shown at the New Theatre tonight. Suspense and thrilling dramatic incidents are the dominant in this new production, and and on the acting side Mr. Ray far exceeds his best previous efforts in either comedy or drama. "The Girl I Loved," is the wreck of a love dream, salvaged from the life of a great American poet and transferred to the screen. James Whitcomb Riley's heart story told before the camera by the inimitable artistry of Mr. Ray who scores as the supreme lover. An actual romance from actual life portrayed through the most impetuous love scenes ever filmed. A soul-gripping story of real people. A picture replete with tremendous emotion, quaint comedy, rare beauty and exceptional acting. Scenes that will burn in your memory. Beautiful Patsy Ruth Miller heads an excellent supporting cast. Program also includes "The Scarlet Trail" chapter 2 of the peril packed sensation stirring chapter play "Leather Stocking", "Topics of the Day," and "Pathe Review."

"A Woman's Secret" Presents the Exceptional Actress Mae Marsh.

Another treat for the motion picture fans of this city is assured when at the New Theatre Saturday matinee and night "A Woman's Secret" featuring Mae Marsh will be the feature attraction. In "A Woman's Secret" Miss Marsh first is seen as the mischievous, fun loving daughter of a wealthy merchant in the latter days of her boarding school days and shows an amazing talent at getting into the most unheard of school-girl-scapes. Later she returns home and becomes the mistress of her father's London residence. Her father frankly prefers his club to his home, and she experiences her first pangs of neglect and loneliness. Then begin the highlights of the story and picture to reveal which would be unfair. Suffice it to say that Miss Marsh again excels in the scenes that follow he has an almost unlimited opportunity for intensely dramatic emotional acting, and in not a single instance does she fail to take full advantage, nor does she fail to rise to the heights of artistry demanded. In addition to the above the program includes "Pathe News 66" showing the world before your eyes.

PALACE THEATRE

Very pleasing entertainment at Palace theatre. Dancing, singing and with his clever jokes Ralph Tompkins pleased a large audience at the Palace Theatre last night.

The songs of his own composition made a big hit as did his jazz dancing and high kicking.

The latest jokes told in an interesting and inimitable manner, kept the crowd in an expansive and jolly mood. Mr. Tompkins is an expert in mimicry and his imitations are as amusing as the jokes which they help put over. Throughout the act his cheerful disposition prevades the Theatre and effectively demonstrates that a handicap such as the loss of a leg cannot drown his infectious optimism and geniality.

The skill and ease with which he dances and handles his crutch leaves no doubt as to his proficiency with the auxiliary limb. With his remaining foot free from the floor he goes through some movements that are decidedly unorthodox. In fact he equals or distances many dancers who have the use of both limbs. You wouldn't believe that a man with one leg could do high kicking, now would you? Better see Tompkins because he certainly does.

Special matinee for school children Saturday afternoon at which time special prizes will be given in various and novel contests and every child that attends will receive candy from Mr. Tompkins.

Get After This One

The apple mouse, better known as pine mouse, lives in most of the Eastern states west to Kansas and Nebraska, says Nature Magazine, and some years causes heavy losses among apple and other fruit trees.

Entrenched Prejudice

Most nations, like most men, are docile only in youth; they become incorrigible as they grow old. When customs are once established and prejudices rooted, it is a dangerous and useless enterprise to try to reform them, the people will not permit their misfortunes to be touched upon, even for their instruction—like the stupid and cowardly sick who shudder at sight of a physician.—Jean Jacques Rousseau.

To Clean Rusty Steel

Rusty steel ornaments, fire irons and the like may be cleaned by being rubbed well with sweet oil, enough of the oil being allowed to remain on the article to soak in for some time.

Envy Well Defined

Envy, is a littleness of soul which cannot see beyond a certain point, and if it does not occupy the whole space feels itself excluded.—Hazlitt.
