

Modern "Injun Fighters" Are Ready to Greet Any Japs Attempting to Invade Oregon Coast

Eugene, Ore.—Who says the spirit of the old West is dead? You can be sure it's very much alive along the Pacific coast region of Lane County, Oregon. That's where several hundred men recently "mobilized" to give any possible invading Japanese a taste of good old American "Injun fighting."

ARMED WITH a variety of weapons ranging from squirrel guns to old 40-82's (which will knock over a 900-pound elk), they call themselves the "Stuslaw Rifles." The organization sprang into action the second night of the war, when a

THEY ARE THE "SIUSLAW RIFLES." "MINUTE MEN" OF CIVILIAN DEFENSE

Coast Guard warning advised civilian defense leaders to be on the alert for a possible Japanese parachute attack.

Some 200 armed men hastily gathered and patrolled highways, tunnels and sections of the beach. The Stuslaw Rifles can now muster about 500 men, who can assemble from every valley and inlet along the coast in less than an hour, and the group is the only authorized armed civilian defense outfit in the country.

These modern "Minute Men" aren't fooling. Trained in the ways of the woods, crack shots with their own favorite guns, they stand ready to harass and hinder any invading force, until regular army troops arrive.

The Stuslaw Rifles have chosen officers, organized loosely along military lines, and mapped plans for defense of their part of the Pacific coastline. Lumberjacks, woodcutters, fishermen, resort owners and farmers make up the group.

They are almost all familiar with the rough terrain, the defense pine forests and the back-woods roads used for logging and hunting, and many of them are descendants of pioneers who were "mustered in" every so often back in the 1850's to fight Indians in southern Oregon.

WHILE THEY await possible developments, plans for mobilization are being perfected, problems of supplying ammunition to the many types of guns are being studied, and members of the force are practicing on handling themselves in the woods.

Headquarters of the Rifles is in Florence. An oil dealer, husky Roy Bowman, is head of the organization. Each of his lieutenants is responsible for a group of men in their own vicinity.

Like their hardy frontiersman forebears, who plowed with one hand and held their guns ready in the other, they are ready to drop their axes, grab the family rifle and defend their homes.

SUGAR STAMPS TO BE ISSUED BY UNCLE SAM

Special "sugar stamps," to be issued by the government to registered consumers, will be required before purchases can be made under the pending sugar rationing program, it was learned today.

Each stamp will permit an individual to buy 12 ounces of sugar—his weekly ration.

A spokesman for the office of price administration disclosed that booklets containing enough stamps to last three months or more would be printed and that the time required for the printing would delay operation of the rationing machinery for at least another month.

It was reported the plan contemplates registration of consumers by families, with stamp booklets to be issued to each member of the family regardless of age. However, no more than one stamp per person may be used each week. This would allow a family of three, for example, a weekly ration of 36 ounces of sugar.

The OPA spokesman said details of the registration requirements had not yet been worked out but that the registration would not be handled by local postoffices. Stamp books will be issued at the time of registration.

OPA said the rationing would be supervised by local boards, probably the same boards now handling the rationing but augmented by a member or members drawn from the food industry.

How to make Pillsbury's Crown-of-Cherries Dessert

Complete recipe:
1. Combine 2 tps. cornstarch and 2 Tbsp. sugar; add 1/2 c. cherry juice gradually; cook until thick and clear. Pour this glaze into a well-greased 8-in. layer pan. 2. Arrange 2 c. (No. 2 can) sour pitted cherries, well drained, on glaze to cover bottom of pan. 3. Sift and measure 1 3/4 c. Enriched Pillsbury's Best Flour. (Two B-vitamins and iron have been added to Pillsbury's Best, with no change in flavor, color, or baking quality.) Add 2 1/4 tps. baking powder (or 1 1/4 tps. double-acting) and 1/2 tsp. salt; sift 3 times. (Note the creamy whiteness of Pillsbury's Best! Every hour during milling, tests are made to insure this uniform, inviting color!) 4. Cream 1/2 c. shortening; add 1 c. sugar gradually; beat until light. 5. Add dry ingredients alternately with combined 1/2 c. milk and 1 tsp. vanilla; mix well after each addition; beat until end. (That fluffy lightness is typical of hatter made with Pillsbury's Best. This superior flour is 24% protein; actual baking tests are made 4 to 6 times daily during milling!) 7. Bake 1/2 batter in cherry-lined pan and other 1/2 in well-greased 8-in. layer pan in moderate oven (375° F.) 20 min. for plain layer, 45 min. for layer with cherries. 8. Spread cold layers with sweetened whipped cream, using cherry layer on top. When men folks (and women folks, too) bite into that fluffy Pillsbury cake—they'll exclaim, "Why, it tastes even better than it looks!" So get Pillsbury's Best Flour today—and try this new dessert in your own kitchen!

Greatest Disaster for U. S. Would be "Route of Purely Partisan Leadership" --Willkie

Syracuse — (AP) — The greatest disaster that could befall America now would be for her to be conducted "down the route of purely partisan leadership," says the 1940 Republican presidential nominee.

A Republican congress would not necessarily be hostile to President Roosevelt, and the best men should be elected regardless of party, Wendell L. Willkie contended last night in answering an address broadcast from Washington by Democratic National Chairman Edward J. Flynn.

Flynn charged Monday night the Republican party was "not as much interested in winning the war as it is interested in controlling the House of Representatives."

He also asserted he felt "no misfortune except a major military defeat could befall this country in the event involved in the election of a Congress hostile to the President."

Addressing 1,500 persons honoring former Mayor Rolland E. Marvin at a testimonial dinner, Willkie said "I was greatly distressed to read in the papers where the chairman of the Democratic committee proclaimed to all the country that the election of Republicans would be a greater disaster than a defeat of American arms in a major battle."

"I do not feel that way about Democrats. Now do I feel that way about Republicans."

"As a matter of fact, the greatest disaster that could come to America at this time is to be led down the route of purely partisan leadership as is requested by the chairman of the democratic national committee.

"That is a route that took England to the brink of disaster, that destroyed France and that left America ineffective in preparation in the long year before the struggle broke out."

"As far as I am concerned," he added, "whether it be Republicans or Democrats who make such statements, I shall condemn them from every rostrum from which I speak."

Marvin, who left the majority Jan. 1 after 12 years, was among the first to declare for Willkie at the 1940 Republican convention in Philadelphia.
