PAYNE'S COLONY.

The Oklahoma Project—The Colonists Animated by Religious Fervor—Troops from Fort Reno.

CALDWELL, Kan., Dec. 14.—Dr. Wilson this morning started for Washington hoping to accomplish something to relieve the situation on the border, and if possible prevent bloodshed.

The settlers broke camp early on Shoo-Fly Creek to move to Caldwell. One of the leaders said today that they were going to get on the recognized road through the Territory along which the cattle men travel to and from Texas, and they say they will not be stopped along this road unless the cattle men and other travelers are stopped. The settlers seem to be animated by the religious fervor that animated the early settlers of Kansas. Most of the settlers are old, gray-haired men.

Major Randall, commanding Fort Reno, has arrived and announced that reinforcements are hurrying up from the fort. This did not in the least deter the settlers. Five wagons and twenty men joined the colonists here. A procession of citizens of Caldwell came out to meet the colonists and escorted them through the principal streets, ladies waving their handkerchiefs, and men cheering.

A Utica Bigamy Case.

UTICA, Dec. 14.—F. C. Fadner, editor of the Watchword, printed at Rome, was ordered acquitted of the charge of bigamy by County Judge Bliss of Rome upon Fauer's counsel, Jos. J. Layles, presenting what purported to be a certified copy of a decree of divorce granted by Judge Van Brunt of New York city, Aug. 14th, against Fadner's wife. Judge Van Brunt says he never signed such a decree. County Clerk Butler of New-York certifies that no such decree has been recorded in his office.

The names of the alleged referee and alleged counsel for Fadner do not appear upon the list of members of the New York bar, and what purported to be a certified copy of the decree was not certified at all, but the Court accepted it, and upon its presentation Fadner was released. Fadner was charged with other offences in the West.

HOLIDAY GOODS.

AND WHERE TO OBTAIN THEM.

A News-Reporter Visits the Stores of Those Who Advertise and Inspect Their Christmas and New Years' Stock.

The proprietors of the News desiring to give their advertisers the benefit of a little free advertising as the holiday season approaches, detailed a reporter to visit their places of business and take a hasty glance at the thousands of different articles which the business men of Batavia have purchased to please the eye of all, high, low, rich and poor. The command being given, the itemizer donned hat and coat and sallied forth upon his mission. The first place visited was the auction and commission store of

WALDO AND NEASMITH.

These gentlemen have recently engaged in business and have a stock consisting of harnesses, robes, cutters and whips, that will bear inspection. They are thorough going men, and we bespeak for them the patronage which they justly deserve.

F. E. WRIGHT

The druggist, has a fine line of perfumes, also fancy articles of all descriptions, usually found in a first class drug store. Mr. Wright has lately added a new feature to his business, that is the sale of hot soda water, it is a good beverage to drink in cold weather, and we advise our readers to give it a trial. After taking a drink of hot coffee, the knight of the quill departed with renewed energy and next entered the hat store of

JOHN THOMAS.

At this place of business the display of stock was immense, and the holiday goods, which consist mainly of the latest styles of gents' gloves and mittens, fine grained traveling bags, umbrellas, and hats and caps of all styles and sizes. Mr. Thomas is a young man and has been engaged in this business but two years, but is pretty well versed in his line of trade.

MISS J. F. KENYON.

If any young man in Batavia is desirous of making his lady love a present which she will appreciate we advise him by all means to call at Miss Kenyon's millinery store and select one of those fine hats or one of the latest pattern bonnets. There is also to be found a nice display of antique toys, lacquer goods, and a great many other articles which would make a handsome and valuable present. The News gleaner called next at the mammoth variety store of

E. L. AND G. D. KENYON.

Through the kindness of Mr. J. H. Yates he was taken through the establishment from top to bottom. The third story was literally packed with children's toys, fancy cabinet ware, glass and wooden ware, all of which will please the eye of the little ones on Christmas morning. The second floor was next in turn, and upon entering, the pencil pusher was fairly dazzled at the sight which met his gaze. Packed on shelves and in every conceivable shape may be seen and purchased, at astonishingly low prices, all sorts of gold band tea sets, china sets, Japan ware, chromos and oil paintings. In this room is a 25, 50 and 75 cent counter from which to select. One more pair of stairs to descend and you are on the ground floor. This room is filled to overflowing with 99c goods, jewelry, books, albums, holiday lamps, fancy rockers, silver plated ware and toys on one side and a complete stock of first class groceries on the other. The Messrs. Kenyons' as usual are prepared for the holiday trade,

THOMAS YATES,

the "boss shoe man," has also selected a stock of goods in his line and we assure those who call upon him that they will get the full benefit of their money.

SHAW AND STILES.

The enterprising druggists, were the next ones to be bothered by the reporter. The stock is so full and complete that it is almost an impossibility to give it the notice which it should have. The stock for elegance far surpasses any which they have shown in former years and must be seen to be appreciated. After leaving the drug store of Shaw & Stiles a close inspection was given to the stock in the store of

E. N. STONE.

Before entering, however, the scribe gave a hasty glance at the tastily trimmed window which was filled with a display of velvets, silk handkerchiefs and numerous articles of fancy for the feminine eye. The interior of the store, which has been tastily trimmed under the supervision of J. L. Donohue, presents an attractive appearance. Mr. Stone has purchased for the holiday trade a line of goods which cannot fail to please, and is selling them at prices which come within the reach of all. Among the most prominent are the stock of silks, silk ribbons, dress goods, zephyrs, underwear for ladies and hosts of other articles which we have not the space to enumerate. He has nine clerks in his employ and it is seldom that they get a chance to play between meals.

L. R. BAILEY AND J. C. BARNES

The clothing merchants have their usual fine line of Gent's furnishing goods on hand, which they have recently purchased and will sell at prices that defy competition.

L. E. HALLOCK,

The new dry goods merchant in the Masonic Temple block was the next man to be interviewed. He has one of the best lighted stores in Western New York, and it was plainly evident from the manner in which his clerks were stirring about, that he was doing a fair share of the dry goods trade. Mr. Hallock has a full stock for the holiday season both in the dry good and notion departments, all of which are tastily arranged. He also makes a specialty in the sale of Gent's furnishing goods, silks, ribbons and velvets.

C. H. HOGAN,

another new comer, who lately opened a shoe store in the same block is doing a lively business and has a stock of goods for Christmas that will please all who favor him with a call. The reporter then climbed the stairs in the Dellinger block and spent a few moments in conversation with the photographer, who was busily engaged in putting on the finishing touches to a large batch of photographs. Mr. Wilson is now making a new style of panel pictures which are very handsome.

W. H. WILSON.

C. W. TALLMAN

Another one of Batavia's leading photographers is also busily engaged in "making faces" of Genesee county people, those who patronize him may be sure of being suited.

T. F. WOODWARD.

In going down the north side of Main street, the p. p. inadvertently failed to call upon the above named gentleman, but we will here state that his line of boots and shoes are No. 1, and if the girls desire to give their best fellow a pair of slippers Dec. 25, Will and Howard will be pleased to wait upon them.

H. B. BOOTH,

the grocer, in the Dellinger block, has a fine display of groceries, also a general stock of imported and domestic wines, liquors and cigars which he offers at low prices.

The north side of Main street being finished the reporter crossed the road and called upon the crockery man,

GEORGE P. BOWEN.

This is one of the best looking places of business in Batavia and would do credit to any city. Mr.

Bowen has made his holiday selections, and a finer stock of crockery, glassware, Japanese ware, etc., cannot be found in any store in Western New York.

PERRY, SMITH AND CO.,

Another enterprising firm who have carried on the clothing business at 105 Main street, for the past two years, have made excellent selections for the Christmas season, and are selling all manner of Gent's furnishing goods and clothing at comparatively low rates. The show window which is so nicely trimmed, shows plainly the quality of the goods that may be found on the inside.

J. R. VANDUSEN

The artist in smokers' articles at 97 Main street has a complete stock on hand. To convince our readers that the goods are first class, we ask them to look at his show window and judge for themselves. After lighting a fine flavored cigar at Mr. Vandusen's expense, the pencil pusher entered the double store of

R. O. HOLDEN AND SON.

The first thing which strikes the eye is a pyramid of silk handkerchiefs, of the most beautiful colors; they also have for the holidays a department devoted entirely to the sale of pocket-books, fringes, chair tidys, gloves and other fancy articles by the hundreds. The windows in both the dry goods and clothing departments have been handsomely arranged by Messrs. Lay, Thompson and Sprague, and we must confess are beautiful to behold.

J. B. AND H. HEWITT.

These young gentlemen are not any behind in their holiday display. Their stock is more extensive than ever before and they are prepared to offer unusual bargains in novelties of every description. Their show windows have also been handsomely trimmed by C. J. Englehardt.

MACEY BROTHERS,

the news dealers, have on hand their annual supply of holiday pictorials, children's magazines, holiday books, caudles, fine cigars in boxes, harmonicas, Christmas and New Years sheet music and music books, stationer, pocket-knives, etc., etc.

ANDERSON AND CHESLEY

Are doing their share of the clothing trade, and for Christmas and New Years have made numerous purchases in the line of Gent's furnishing goods, which can be bought cheap. 61 Main street is the number.

A. D. TRYON

The well known druggist is on hand with presents for the old and young. They consist of gold pens, perfumes, gilt books, stationery and toilet sets. Give him a call, and we are certain you can be suited.

C. M. BOSWORTH,

Last but not least, comes the above named establishment. Mr. Bosworth deals in fine shoes and slippers. If you give him a call you can rest assured that you will be honorably dealt with.
