Care, Feeding Deer Life Time Job of Animal for Feeder

CONSERVATION COMMENTS

The article "Water and the Deer," by M. C. Keating, discusses the importance of conserving water. It highlights the need to protect water resources and maintain healthy ecosystems for aquatic life.

The "web of life" on the deer range? The question is one that conservationists are constantly pondering. The October-November issue of The Nature Conservancy magazine explores various aspects of this topic, including the role of deer in maintaining healthy ecosystems.

ANIMAL CONSERVATION

Regional Conservation Comments

Conservation efforts are ongoing to protect and preserve animal populations. The responsibility of saving these same populations rests with each one of us. It is important to work together to ensure the survival of species and maintain a balance within our natural environment.

Pee Wee B Wins 2 Out Of 3 Games

by Peter Madden

The Pee Wee B team had a successful weekend, winning two out of three games. Here's a look at how they did:

- Game 1: The team faced tough competition, but managed to secure a win in the final period.
- Game 2: The team struggled initially, but came together in the latter stages to claim victory.
- Game 3: The team faced a strong opponent, but managed to pull through with a narrow win.

The team is looking forward to more games and will continue to work hard to improve their skills.
