Softball Proves Popular Pastime

Four softball leagues are cornering the Cambridge youth market in the early evening this summer. Part of the summer recreation program, the leagues, including a power puff league, have 217 participants.

The leagues are staggered so that there is plenty of action Monday through Friday. Most games begin at 6 p.m. Games are played on the school athletic field.

A separate Friday evening program for third grade boys and fourth grade girls gives them an opportunity to compete in soft ball against people their own size.

In addition to the evening program, 80 youngesters attend a morning program at the school. Angela Estramonte, assisted by Betty Jordan and Jackie Decker run the program. Donald Pierce, Jerome Sardi and Carson Fuller, program director, supervise the evening softball.

The morning program is a combination of recreation and arts and crafts. Children five years old or older may participate. Thus far they have made pot holders, paper mache jewelry, and painted. They have played pingpong, battleball, dodgeball, and various other games.

This program is still open to qualified youngsters.

The softball league last Friday exchanged a game with Greenwich. On Friday, July 21, they played at Cambridge.

Pharmacy PHACTS

by:
WALTER D. KINNIN, B.S.

A congenital indifferance to pain is a rarity which has intrigued the medical world for some time. Males and females seem to be equally afflicted by this strange immunity which often is discovered only by accident.

Little is know about its cause. It is not related to the relative lack of sensation of the menfally retarded and its subjects may also be insensitive to taste and smell. Itching is a nuisance often beyond experience. Family incidence is the exception rather than the rule. In some quarters left-handedness has been mentioned as an accompaniment of this strange affliction.

Come to think of it, we make it a perfectly painless chore to have prescriptions filled where service is quick and sure. When you are in need of medication prescribed by your physician, rely on KINNINS PHARMACY, 75 East Main Street, Phone: 677-3822 for free delivery. Open daily 8 to 9 PM 8 to 1 Sundays.

TODAY'S TIP— Rub with salt lightly moistened with water to remove stains from china.

GOING TO CALIFORNIA

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith and family will leave Cambridge for Irvin, Calif., July 31. Mrs. Smith, who has taught in the Cambridge central school for four years, will teach junior high school math and science in the San Joaquin school district.

Weddings

OGDEN-PETERS

Miss Ann Marie Peters and Kenneth Ogden were united in marriage June 24 at 11 a.m. at the Center White Creek Baptist church by the Rev. Nelson Egbert.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Peters of Eagle Bridge. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. F. Asa Ogden of Johnsonville.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Peters wore an A-line gown of silk peau de soie and Alecon lace over taffeta, fashioned with seed pearls, an embroidered bodice, kabuki sleeves and a detachable watteau cathedral train.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Albert Baratto, wore an empire A-line floor length nile green shantoon with kabuki sleeves, bordered by daisies, with a Dior bow head piece.

The other attendants, Mrs. Theodore Collette Jr., sister of the bride, and Mrs. Joan LeBarron, wore similar gowns of maize and carried bouquets of gladiola and daisies.

Mrs. Helen Holden was organist. The church was decorated with white peonies and red roses.

Following the ceremony a reception for 66 guests was held at the Town House restaurant in Cambridge.

The mother of the bride received in pink linen with white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The mother of the bridegroom was attired in turquoise crepe and lace with white accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations.

Mrs. Ogden was graduated from Cambridge central school and State university at Albany. She will be employed as librarian in the Colonie central school in September.

Mr. Ogden was graduated from the Hoosic Valley central school in Schaghticoke and is attending State university at Albany.

For the wedding trip the bride left in a blue and white linen dress with white accessories.

The couple will reside in Albany at 321 Hamilton Street.

He was a member and former trustee of Shushan United Presbyterian church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Eleanor Ericksen; and one son, Matthew Klare, Shushan.

Pines Suffer From Attack By Sawflies

Five species of sawflies are common defoliators of pine trees in New York state. The larvae of these sawflies resemble caterpillars and feed in groups on one branch at a time until all of the foliage is consumed. The newer needles are not usually touched unless food is scarce or it is late in the summer.

Dr. Howard C. Miller of the state university college of forestry, has prepared a four-page leaflet, "Pine Sawflies." This free booklet covers most of the important points on the subject of pine sawflies.

Dr. Miller notes that sawfly outbreaks are of short duration in any one locality, but there are exceptions where serious infestations have lasted a number of years.

"Pine Sawflies" covers five most common species of sawfly found in the state and lists the types of pines preferred by each one. Pines commonly attacked are: red, white, Scotch, pitch, Austrian, Mugho, jack, lodgepole, loblolly, slash, Japanese and Virginia.

The adult sawfly resembles a wasp and emerges from a tough cocoon woven by the larvae. These cocoons are most commonly found in the forest litter, but do occur in trees. The female lays her eggs in slits cut in pine needles by the saw-like ovipositor—thus the name, sawfly.

To get a copy of the leaflet containing recommendations for controlling these pests, send a postal card to the Extension Department, College of Forestry, Syracuse, N. Y. 13210.

RECEIVES LEGION OF MERIT—Colonel (retired) John M. Brooks, center, of 3304 West 97th place, Leawood, Kan., receives the legion of merit from Colonel E. V. D. LOCAL AGENT TO SPONSOR COLOR TV SPECIAL

A television special on boating, similar to the National Safe Drivers Test, will be sponsored on area TV tonight by a local insurance agency.

The Jerome E. Wright, Ino. Agencies, Cambridge and Salem, N. Y., are one of six insurance agencies who have joined forces in sponsoring the half-hour prime-time special. The full-color program, like the drivers tests, shows 20 situations leading to an accident, and then asks the viewer what action he would take.

Jerome Wright, president of the Jerome E. Wright, Inc. Agencies, said this was the first time to his knowledge that a group of insurance agencies had joined forces to sponsor such a TV program.

Entitled "What Now, Captain?" the special will be aired July 27 between 9 and 9:30 P.M. on Channel 13, WAST-TV. Wright said the program should be of special interest to viewers in this area because of the large number of boaters and other water enthusiasts.

Wright reports that boating accident statistics, as well as enjoyment, provide a reason for such a program. Last year, he said, New York had 552 reported boating accidents. In these accidents, he stated, 341 persons were injured, 72 fatally. This means that one out of every 1.3 accidents reported resulted in personal injury and/or fatality.

The Jerome E. Wright, Inc. Agencies have a supply of the question and answer sheets to be used on the program. Anyone desiring a copy can obtain it from the Agencies offices.
