THE DAILY TIMES.

WATERTOWN, SEPT. 10, 1870.

LOVE.

I would crave a boon of thee—
Thou germ of heavenly birth—
I would say how cold and drear
Without thee would be earth.
Thy magic power can win the heart
From many an erring way;
It bids despondency depart,
And points to endless day.

Pure love is not terrestrial born,
But comes from heavenly spheres,
It brings the sunshine to our hearts
And wipes away all tears.
Celestial love, oh, sweetest boon
That e'er to man was given—
United love on earth shall find
A peaceful rest in heaven.

The Ladies.

—A pretty foot and ankle get up [illegible] easier than those not so pretty.

—Certain ladies are bound [illegible] fan-dango even if it is in church.

—Why do girls kiss each other men not? Because girls each having better to kiss, and men have.

—The last instance of originality in marriage announcement is the following: "No cards, no cakes, no fuss."

—An old lady at Red Hook has used one umbrella for twenty-two years. She is not in the habit of lending the article.

—A good excuse for married ladies to indulge in tight lacing is that in good housekeeping there should be no waste.

—A young lady on being asked what calling she wished her sweetheart to follow, blushingly replied that she wished him to be a husbandman.

—A lady says she always feels well dressed when she has on handsome fitting gloves and shoes, no matter how plain the rest of her dress may be.

—Young ladies, always give precedence to age. Never go to the wash-tub if your mother or grandmother are present; they might consider it disrespectful.

—The new Duchesse lace is something like Honiton point, only finer. Honiton being no longer manufactured, this new substitute will probably become a great favorite.

—In Paris a lover caught the small pox of the girl he loved. They both were sick a month, when she came out without a mark on her face, and he looked awful speckled. She pitted him and married him.

—A woman's rowing match took place at Pittsburg, on Saturday. The young ladies engaged in the contest showed an ability to paddle their own canoes which speaks highly for the general question of women's rights.

—The rage for white dresses continues unabated. They are worn on every occasion, from morning negligee to evening full dress, and in every material—Swiss muslin, Victoria lawn, French manisook, Irish linen and corded pique.

An old bachelor says if a girl wants to know when she looks most charming in the men's eyes, it is when she wears a simple muslin dress, with a frill of lace around the neck and at the waist, and no ornaments but youth and freshness.

—A lady in New York has just died from consumption, produced by a cold which she caught by crossing to and from the different hotels at Saratoga, in the evening, in thin satin slippers, and low necked evening dress, and nothing over her shoulders.

—In Alaska, if a native murders his wife her relatives will not be satisfied until he gives them a lot of blankets. They think a wife is worth fifteen blankets in summer and twenty in winter.

—"Jenkins" has been writing [illegible] Island for the New York Evening [illegible] describing the bathing costume that "charming resort," he was pertinently struck by a pretty suit worn by one the "belles," consisting of a high crowned hat of perforated straw, trimmed with a bit of sea-weed and a shoe string.

—"I sympathize sincerely with your grief," said a French lady's recently widowed friend. "To lose such a husband as yours." "Ah, yes, he was very good; and then, you see, such a misfortune is always great, for one knows what kind of a husband she has lost, but cannot tell what kind of a man one will find to succeed him."

—The very latest thing in the advertising line, is a lady who, through the newspapers, seeks for employment as an "ornamental guest." She will assist at dinner or evening parties—by her grace, her wit, and beauty, contribute to the entertainment of guests, and she will do everything in the highest style of art—only she demands that a handsome compensation be made therefor.
