Distinguishing Features of Geneva.

- Three banks. Six social clubs. Five public halls. A board of trade. Six fire companies. Electric surface railway. Three express companies. Electric terminal railroad. 1400 acres of nursery grounds. Ten churches and three chapels. A line of steamers on Seneca lake. Twelve newspapers and periodicals. Six steam railroads and two stations. Twenty-nine incorporated companies. A population of about ten thousand. Dancing academy and school of music. Beautiful residences and pleasant streets. The handsome opera house in the state. The state agricultural experiment station. The two best mineral springs in the world. ONE DAILY NEWSPAPER—THE TIMES. Communication by Seneca and Cayuga canal. Twenty-four benevolent and social societies. A superb Y. M. C. A. building and equipment. State military company and an independent militia. An enterprising, intellectual and progressive population. Eight schools, two business colleges, including Hobart college. Grand army post, Woman's Relief Corps, and Union Veterans' union. An excellent water system, and both gas and electric lighting plants. Homes for old ladies, Church Home hospital, and protected hospital. The people welcome new comers and are willing to advance new industries.

IRRIGATION IN THE SOUTH.

The subject of land irrigation, which has received wide attention in the west, will be first taken up in a general way by the people of the southern states at a special congress that will meet at Atlanta in October for this purpose. The congress will be composed of five delegates at large from each of the southern states, members of state commissions of irrigation, and one delegate each from regularly organized irrigation, agricultural and horticultural societies, societies of engineers, state departments of agriculture, agricultural colleges and commercial bodies in the southern states. Besides these, duly accredited delegates to the Farmers National congress and the road parliament, members of the national board of irrigation, members of congress, governors of states, the secretaries of agriculture and of the interior, and many foreign officials and other persons interested in the objects of the congress will be invited to attend its proceedings. The purpose of the congress is to discuss methods of irrigation and the effect of such land improvement upon various crops. It is claimed that there are large areas of productive land now lying in almost useless condition on account of the dryness of soil which, in other respects, is capable of fertility. In the same regions are streams, swamps and artesian wells that might be made to supply the deficit. It now can be accomplished, and with what probable results, will be considered by the irrigation congress.

CLOUDS LIFTING.

The dark clouds which have depressed the spirits for nearly a couple of years are gradually lifting and the country seems to be making ready for another era of successful industry and for gainful trade. Hard times never last long in this country. In the old times before the railroad system made the markets co-extensive with the natural territory, and many a farmer who had rejoiced over the bounty of nature had to use his crop for fuel, it sometimes took a long time for the country to recover from a financial crisis. But now the development of the machinery of commerce has swelled the recuperative capacity of the nation to such a degree that recovery follows on the heels of depression, and people hardly fully realize that they are floored before they are on their feet again. The prospect is that 1896 will be a good year everywhere and that purchases of property made during the period of depression will turn out lucky ventures. In view of it the groans of the croakers who see the future painted in black and who howl for legislative intervention to make two and two foot up five seem pitifully ludicrous. Cassandra may possess her soul in peace; while she is lamenting, men are working, the mills of the gods are grinding, and the grief is good.

WAYS OF AN ORGAN.

The Home Sentinel brings to light the method of some editorial writers on the political organs in the state, very naïvely, in the following manner: Readers of all the newspapers in the state are mostly confined to newspaper notices. But they will not fail to notice the similarity, word for word, between editorial articles which appeared simultaneously in a number of republican papers. The article related to the election of...

publicans should nominate not only good men, that senators will hold office for three years, that SENATOR HILLON must be beaten, etc., etc. This article appeared simultaneously on Wednesday in several newspapers which put leads between the lines and made it look like "editorial." But it may be said that most newspapers prefer to write their own editorials rather than to make their readers believe some documents are sent out by a political committee are burning thoughts from the newspaper's sanctum.

THE war clouds have cleared away.

THE New York Sun wants the next congress to pass an anti-third term resolution.

THE statue of WILLIAM PENN in Philadelphia is doing service as a flag bearer.

WILLIAM C. WHITNEY is looming up as a presidential candidate. CLEVELAND is said to favor him.

It costs a million dollars a year more to support the theatres in New York than it does the churches. Moral unnecessary.

STREET cleaning Commissioner WARREN has given up writing letters and gone to work cleaning the streets. This is as it should be.

POLICE Commissioner ROOSEVELT is fast making a record for efficiency. He is up early and late and the cops never know when to expect him. His work it well done and if the police do not do theirs well it will not be his fault.

THE Laddow case against RUSSELL SAGE is on for the fourth time and it is to be hoped the jury will agree this time. Mr. SAGE ought to pay LAIDLAW something and the $30,000 which he charged, being made a target of, does not seem to be unreasonable.

Russia and Japan have been making a treaty of commerce which is to go into force in four years. A tariff treaty including the most favored nation clause has also been agreed upon to go into immediate effect. This does not look as if Russia and Japan have much idea of going to war.

The president is not counted a practical joker, but it is said upon being informed that J. EDSON HAMON, his new Attorney-General, was a man of ample physical proportions the president said—"I am glad of that. After exchanging BISSELL's two hundred and seventy-five pounds for WILSON's one hundred and twenty-five we had to do something to add weight to the administration."

Roof gardens are getting popular in our large cities and there is every reason why they should be. If properly conducted they afford recreation to those who cannot get out of the city during the heated term and the light refreshments and music offered are gratefully received by numerous patrons. There are six public gardens of this kind now in New York.

The Cincinnati Commercial is a good republican paper, but it indorses all the handsome things that are being said about the new attorney-general, and adds its own tribute by remarking that he is in the front rank of a bar that is distinguished throughout the country. In politics he is a democrat of the old school. Neither greenback nor free silver colleague had any attractions for him. He is a civil reformer by conviction. His last two appearances at any public function were at the Storker hard money dinner, and a night or two after at the Roosevelt lecture, where he introduced in an extremely complimentary way the late president of the civil service reform commission.
