

A THEATER COLLAPSED

One Killed and a Number Hurt. Falling Walls Struck an Italian Home Near the Building.

Montreal, Que., Nov. 22—A portion of the new Theater Francaise, now in course of construction on St. Catherine street, collapsed yesterday afternoon and a number of people were buried in the ruins. One man was killed and several people were seriously injured. The man killed was Angelo Costello.

A number of workmen were engaged on the building, rushing the work of construction. A high wind was blowing and suddenly a portion of a brick wall in the rear collapsed and crashed into a small tenement situated near the theater building.

The tenement was occupied by several Italian families. Costello who lived in the top story, was sick in bed when an avalanche of brick and mortar came crashing into the house burying him in the debris. A small stove in the kitchen was overturned and the place set on fire. Costello was removed in a dying condition and expired while on his way to the hospital. The other injured were taken to the hospital.

SALVATION OFFICERS HERE

Sessions at the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium. Last Session Will Be at First Baptist Church This Evening.

The Northern and Central New York district Salvation army convention is being held in this city. The first open session was held in Y. M. C. A. hall at 8 o'clock last night. About 300 persons were in attendance. The meeting was addressed by Brig. N. A. McIntyre, of Buffalo; Staff Capt. Barter, of Rochester, and Ensign A. E. W. Coate, of Elmira.

There are over 40 delegates present from the several posts in this part of the state. Meals are served at the local barracks, in Exchange street. There was a private session in the hall yesterday afternoon, from 2 to 5 o'clock. The reports read showed the army to be in a flourishing condition, and a large increase in the number of converts during the past six months.

A private business session was held from 10 to 12 o'clock this forenoon, and another is in progress at the army rooms this afternoon. The final meeting of the council will be held at First Baptist church at 7:30 o'clock tonight, when the leading officers in attendance will speak. The object of the sessions is to outline the best methods of work and to gain spiritual support. A grand Salvation march preceded the meeting last night, and there will be another tonight.

hope that they will be adopted. The committee has devoted itself for three years to the question, and their report was decided upon unanimously."

Dr. J. B. Hubbs said he is in favor of the canons as formulated. He thinks they will be adopted by the convention next October. The civil law permits the marriage of the innocent party in this state, but the guilty person can go into another state, get married and come back to this state and live. Dr. Hubbs has adopted the plan of not marrying any divorced people at all.

SELECTING A CORSET.

It is an Important Task and Requires the Exercise of Great Care and Ripe Judgment.

Comfort and beauty both considered, a woman's corset is her most important article of apparel. A good corset will accentuate the good points in her figure, and help to conceal imperfections. There has been a great deal of nonsense written and spoken for and against the corset. This being a free country, there is no reason why a woman who prefers to go about without stays, whether from physical reasons or personal convictions in the matter, should not be allowed to follow her own sweet inclination.

Personally, I consider a well-fitting, properly constructed corset a blessing. There are, of course, some slight, willow figures which can do without the support of a corset. But they are very rare exceptions. Take, for example, Mrs. Leslie Carter. Mrs. Carter wears a little girdle about her waist, which is all she requires, her figure being naturally slender, and the physical culture she has received in her years of hard training having given her extraordinary liteness and poise. But the average woman has not the advantage of Mrs. Carter's figure, nor the benefit of long and harmonious physical training. This everyday woman requires a corset, and not any or every corset which she may chance to discover that happens to have a certain number attached to it. There are two things which she must observe with the greatest care. First, whether the corset itself is made in the proper form and well-constructed. Secondly, whether it fits her. How many women, who are so careful about the way their gowns or coats fit, when purchasing corsets ignore either one or both of these precautions!

There are many good ready-made as well as custom-made corsets in the market, and before making her purchase she should first decide which form is more suitable for her figure. There are corsets for slender figures and others adapted only to stout women; there are some for long waists and some for short waists.

Having selected her corset, she should insist upon trying it on, and, above all, she should never select a cheaper corset just because it is cheaper. In stays, as in toilet soap, a woman cannot afford to economize, for health and comfort as well as personal appearance are vitally concerned. No matter how handsome a gown may be, if it is fitted and worn over a badly-made corset the effect will be ruined.

To show just how great a factor her corset is in a woman's appearance, I induced a lady who was wearing a most hideous corset to allow me to make two little sketches of her.

In No. 1 she is wearing the corset of her own selection, while No. 2 shows the same figure in a well-fitting corset. Everyone who sees these pictures will recognize the first figure as one she knows very well. The second corset is not heavily boned, but is so cut that the ugly curve at the waist is entirely suppressed and objectionable embonpoint, caused by the wretched shape of the old corset, has entirely disappeared.—Gertrude M. Anderson, in Detroit Free Press.

Rough on the Bay State.
A teacher in civil government had told his pupils that once in ten years the state of Massachusetts takes a census. Little James, who is an attentive scholar, upon being called up to recite, said:

It is Worth Remembering.
It's the man at the top of the ladder who can reach things," remarked the haughty representative of a noble family.
"True," remarked the sarcastic man in homespun, "but it is the man at the bottom who can upset the ladder."—Chicago Post.
