L. W. W. AT TEXAS UNIVERSITY

Not the long-haired and be-whiskered variety that is finding the trans-Atlantic route the safety first path, but—the all-year coaching staff at Texas University. They're wearing the athletic sweaters they won at their alma maters. The little fellow is Whittaker of Indiana, who coaches basketball. Next to him is Juneau, Wisconsin, football coach, and on the right is Van Gent, another Wisconsin man who tutors the Longhorn track men.

CARDINAL GIBBONS DISCUSSES H. C. L.

Washington, Jan. 26.—Cardinal Gibbons today discussed the high cost of living in a letter to the Treasury Department, in which he said:
"The prosperity that has come to us is not cure to be spent lavishly and without regard to consequences but it is to be increased by consistent saving, thoughtful investment and wise use."

USES RAZOR TO TRY SUICIDE

Leather Manufacturer, Now a Prisoner in S. I. Hospital, Will Recover

Julius Loos, a leather manufacturer, 53 years old, of 27 Hamilton street, Stapleton, is in the Staten Island Hospital after attempting suicide, having yesterday severed two arteries in his right arm with a razor in the bathroom of his home.

He was discovered lying in a semi-conscious condition on the floor of the room by his wife, who summoned an ambulance from the hospital. Mrs. Loos said her husband had been acting queerly of late, and that she attributes his rash act to being mentally perturbed over his failure to succeed commercially for a year or more. Loos will recover.

JAIL RECORD IN HIS FAVOR

Man Returns from Elmira to Face Another Theft Charge

Charles E. Burke, released this week from the Elmira Reformatory, where he served a term for stealing, was arraigned again Saturday morning in the County Court before Justice Henry Tiernan on a charge of burglary. Sentence was suspended. Anthony P. Egidicio, a co-defendant on the burglary charge, arraigned on the first time, pleaded not guilty.

Both young men are from Manhattan.

Burke was convicted about a year and a half ago in the County Court of stealing an automobile owned by Wilmot S. DeHart, an official of the Staten Island Hospital. The prisoner was sentenced to the Elmira Reformatory by Justice Tiernan. Because of good conduct, Burke won his parole and was returned to this county to answer the burglary charge.

When arraigned for sentence, Burke was told by the justice that the reformatory authorities had recommended that he escape punishment on this latter charge. The plea for leniency was based upon the good conduct of the prisoner during his stay at Elmira and also upon the fact that ... health is undermined.

Egidicio was indicted for the same burglary ... as he has been in the United States Army, has never come to trial. When arraigned Saturday, he entered a denial and will be tried in the March term of the county court.

RHODE ISLAND TESTS VALIDITY

Washington, Jan. 26.—The government in the Supreme Court today moved to dismiss Rhode Island's bill attacking the ... constitutional prohibition.

Argument on this motion is expected to determine whether constitutional prohibition will stand. Solicitor General King stated the motion could not be argued until March, because Rhode Island attorneys are not yet ready. A recess of the court during February will likely keep it until that time, so that a decision cannot be expected before April.

The court agreed to advance the appeals from Ohio courts which will determine whether states by referendums can override the action of state legislatures in ratifying a constitutional prohibition amendment.

PATRONS WAIT AND WALK FOR LACK OF BUSES

Commuters Complain of Poor Service Last Night and This Morning

Many complaints were heard last night and this morning of insufficient buses to accommodate the people traveling and that those running did so at long separated intervals. This deficiency resulted in overcrowded ... and long waits in the cold.

When one of the late buses left last night arrived at the ... terminal only one bus was waiting to take the people to Westerleigh and the Four Corners. Those going in this direction were packed in as far as possible, but about 20 others were unable to be accommodated. These were left at the terminal without means of transportation until another could be found to take them home.

Passengers from Meier's Corner at 5 o'clock this morning waited 10 minutes before a bus came in sight. Those in the car had gone four blocks for St. George. When this arrived, such a crowd had collected that by the time the car had gone four blocks it was filled to capacity and many would-be passengers passed on. Some were left on the street completely exhausted in the extreme cold. At least as long a time passed before another bus came along to pick up these people.

A young woman reported that on Saturday afternoon, after waiting some time at Broadway and Henderson avenues, West Brighton, she started to walk to Westerleigh, intending a bus would overtake her on the way. She reached her destination, ... a walk from 30 to ... without seeing a bus going in that direction.

TO REVISE BUS SCHEDULE

Plans for new routing and revised schedule are being made by the Department of Plant and Structures, it was announced at that office this morning. It is expected that if these improvements are put into effect the efficiency of the system will be greatly improved. It is hoped that the changes planned in the bus operations will increase the territory touched by the municipal service. Also it is expected that better schedule will be devised whereby service during the slack hours of the day will be increased.

FIX SOLDIER'S BAIL AT $2,500

Anthony Marsalik, a soldier from Camp Merritt, who shot and killed a Port Richmond girl last month, was admitted to bail by Justice Clark in the Supreme Court Saturday morning. Bail on two charges under which he stands ... aggregates $2,500, ... furnished.

It is alleged that the soldier shot the young girl, his friend, while showing her how his army revolver worked. He claims that he did not know the gun was loaded. He was indicted by the January Grand Jury and pleaded not guilty last Friday, but was held until the following day to arraign bail. Marsalik is accused of manslaughter, on which charge bail was set at $2,000. He is also under indictment for having a gun under his possession ... and was at $500. ... this connection ... The prisoner was represented ... by former Judge William J. ...
