PLATTSBURGH SENTINEL.

FRIDAY MORNING, NOV. 2, 1883.

THE SONG OF THE SCHOOL GIRL.

With heavy and aching head
With weary but sleepless brain,
A school girl sat in her room at night.
And thus gave voice to her pain:

It's study by day and by night,
And it's study by night and by day,
Till a blur comes over my sight,
And my brain seems oozing away.

The studies are piled so high
That the weight is breaking me down;
I wish I had wings, and could fly
Away from the school and the town.

It's study and study at school,
And it's study and study up here,
And I shudder beneath the rule
That awaits the failure I fear.

All day and all night is my head
With figures and facts oppressed,
And at last when I crawl into bed
They haunt me and rob me of rest.

It's oh, for a romp and a run,
A game with a hoop or a ball!
And it's oh, to be out in the sun,
Away from percentage and all!

Perhaps I may marry some day,
If I ever get through with my life,
And what will my husband say
To a nervous and fidgety wife?

It's study by day and by night,
And it's study by night and by day.
Oh, surely it cannot be right
To study and never to play.

Tarring and Feathering a Church Organ.

The tarring and feathering of a church organ is the novel way one faction of the quarreling Wallpark (N. J.) church "got even" with the other. The religious body has been fighting bitterly for 10 years because the new meeting house was built on the west side of the river instead of being kept on the east. The matter was settled by an agreement to take the building where the most money was raised, but somehow this only added oil to the angry flame. As time went on the original cause of the war appears to have been partly lost sight of, but the bitterness only grew. This body of christians were determined to fight each other on some pretext or other, and another was found a few years ago in the fact that the organist was an east-sider. She was the only person in the neighborhood who knew the mysteries of the instrument, and as the west-siders, therefore, could not succesfully roust her, they gratified themselves by leaving anonymous letters on door steps attacking her character and bringing grave charges of immorality against others of the congregation—east-side people, of course. The writer could not be found, and about seven months ago the disgraceful method of revenge was begun again. Meanwhile the westsiders succeeded in finding somebody able to play the organ and, what was as much to the purpose, succeeded also in getting the old player dismissed. This defeat of the long victorious east-side aroused a tremendous storm of rage in their bosoms. But the revenge they took was not so commonplace ar the leaving of slanderous letters on door steps. They had fertile imaginations among them, and when the minister and congregation met the other evening to pray and to hear the new organist play for the first time, they were dumb-founded at finding the organ looking like a huge bird of prey, so covered was it with tar and feathers. This is how the battle stands now. The east side faction of this church militant would seem to have done more than enough to satisfy them for a while; but they have not, and they mean to form a church of their own where they can worship the meek and lowly Nazarene in their own way.—Springfield Republican.

A New Steamer for Lake George.

The work on the new side wheel steamer Ticonderoga, now building on Lake George for and by the Champlain Transportation Company, is rapidly progressing. The vessel will be completed during the winter, and will run next season in place of the propeller Ganouskie, which will be used hereafter by the company as a spare boat and for excursions. The following is a description of the Ticonderoga:

It was designed and is under the personal supervision of A. B. Curtis. The dimensions are: Length of keel, 162 feet; length over all, 172 feet; breadth of beam, 28 feet; breadth over all, 46 feet; depth of hold, 9 feet. The draught of water will be four feet six inches. The joiner work and general arrangement will be similar to those of the company's steamer Horicon. The W. & A. Fletcher company, of the North River Iron Works, New York, furnished the machinery which was successfully tried last week. The boat has a vertical beam engine, forty inches diameter of cylinder and nine feet stroke of piston. The boiler is of the return tubular kind, ten feet six inches diameter of shell, eleven feet front and sixteen feet long. All the flanges are of Otis steel, and the remainder of the boiler is of Glasco iron. The boiler has a covering of galvanized sheet iron, having an air space of three inches between the boiler and the iron for the prevention of fire and the retention of heat. The paddle-wheels are of the composite (wood and iron) style, twenty-five feet six inches in diameter and seven feet face of bucket. The boat has a donkey steam pump and a blower engine and blower. The boat will make a trial trip next spring, before the commencement of the summer season. The Ticonderoga is expected to be fast.

Scraps.

—The Canadian Pacific railway constructed during one week (six days) in July, no less than 25¾ miles of track.

—Within the corporate limits of the city of Buffalo are more miles of railroad track than there are in any other three cities on the face of the earth. The Erie alone has 143 miles of track there.

—The wire-fence war will engage an extra session of the Texas Legislature. Some of the pastures are fenced without a break for over forty miles or more, and the only choice left to travellers is either to drive two days' journey out of the way or cut the fences.

—A Frenchman has secured a troupe of Omaha Indians to take to France. Among those going are Yellow Smoke, Fire Chief, and Standing Hawk. A large amount of buckskin and Indian trinkets has been furnished them, with which to rig out in full Indian dress."

—The Railway Age says the fastest train on the American continent is that running on the Canada Atlantic railway between Coteau station and Ottawa. It makes fifty-two miles per hour. This is faster than the fast limited express between Philadelphia and New York.

—A glorious thrill of new life, like the pulsing of an angel's harp, is trembling through American girlhood. The Vassar College students have aroused themselves to the realities of existence. With awakening eyes they see the effulgence of a higher light beckoning them to a higher plane, and bending the energies of their souls to the demand that will be made upon them in the approaching future. They have added to their curriculum instructions in the noble art of making pie.

—A new society has been established in Vesprim, Hungary. Its members are women-haters. Their circular says that "the founders of this association have been convinced by long and painful experience that in modern society woman, with rare exceptions, is no longer the ideal woman, but a creature of frivolity, of worldly, foolish pleasures, a puppet of fashion, not suited to make the only support of her sex (man) happy, but likely to make him miserable by her deceit." What have Susan B. Anthony and Lily Devereaux Blake to say to this?

Trials of Train Dispatchers.

Men Who Hold the Lives of the Traveling Public in Their Hands.

"Yes, sir; I don't mind telling you why it is," answered the conductor. "At twenty my hair was as black as coal. Those streaks of gray were caused by my three or four years' experience as a train dispatcher on a great trunk line running out of Chicago.

"People who climb on a passenger train when it is two or three hours late little imagine what endless planning and management it takes to get her through safely. Let a freight get behind time and we can handle her by running on another train's time, but a passenger breaks up everything on the road. A train dispatcher must be familiar with every circumstance and every possible combination of circumstances. He must know just on what portion of the road fast time can be made, and give orders accordingly. He must never give an order for certain time to be made unless he is positively certain that grade and condition of the weather will permit of such time being made. To-day I may order a train to run from Station A to Station B, and another for a train to run from B to A, when the same order to-morrow would precipitate a collision.

"You have got to know all the men on the line. Why, on that road that I worked on there would be engineers and conductors that could never get a train through on time. Then there were others that would never be late except in case of accident. Why, sometimes during my eight hours of duty I would give 250 train orders. Just think of that a moment. Here is a passenger train four hours late, and a freight train side-tracked at almost every station. Of course that puts every train behind time. First I have to order the operator to put out his flag and hold the train for orders, and then I have to send the order and wait for it to be repeated back. At the same time a train may be passing a station five miles away, when I want to hold and side-track her. All this time I must not only keep a clear track for the passenger train, but must unnecessarily detain the freights. Sometimes, right in the middle of a rush of business like this, the wire will break, or some operator will leave his key open. Then everything is to pay. Fortunately the train dispatcher's order is the law. Every employe is bound to obey it. So we do not have to worry about that.

"Did I ever have an accident? No, but I've come mighty near it. Once I left the office, by permission, in care of my assistant, and when I returned I found that he had two trains running toward each other on a single track, and only a station between them. Fortunately I got a message to the station to flag the first train that got there, but if one of them had happened to pass, there would have been a fearful accident. It was a very natural mistake. My assistant had been with me two years. He had everything side-tracked all right, but he had forgotten the 'unwritten law' of the road prohibiting two trains on a single track."

Topnoody.

"My dear," remarked Mr. Topnoody to his wife looking up from his paper, "have you noticed the controversy going on between Foraker and Hoadly?"

"Who's Foraker and Hoadly?" she asked.

"Why, my dear, they are the respective candidates for Governor of Ohio."

"They are the respectable candidates for the governor of Ohio, are they? Well, I'm glad to hear it. What's the controversy?"

"Oh, it's merely political, and as women know nothing about politics or the science of government it will be difficult for me to explain it to you."

"You think so, do you? Well, Topnoody, I think I have demonstrated pretty clearly to you that practically I am well posted in the science of government, and as for politics, I can tell you I have in my life been elected to office."

"You surprise me, my dear," he replied in a sarcastic tone. "I was not aware that you had such aspirations."

"Aspirations, nothing! I didn't aspire. There was nobody to fill the place and I took it to preserve the union, so to speak."

"Ah, indeed? May I ask what this office was which you seem to think you alone were capable of filling."

"Of course you may ask."

"Well, what was it?"

"It was governor of the United States of Topnoody. I saw years ago that the vacancy needed filling and I filled it, and I am pleased to state that I have filled it so acceptably that I have been re-elected at every contest, and I propose to be my own successor as long as the union continues. As a governor, I hardly think that you will deny that I am a success, but if you have any doubts on that score, Topnoody, I wish you would institute a rebellion and have them settled at once and forever."

Topnoody has not yet rebelled.

A Sensible Parrot.

Three weeks after the great fire in Chicago, in 1871, I saw a parrot which had saved itself from the general fate of all household treasures there. It had belonged to my old friend, Mrs. Kirkland, and was doubly cherished by her daughter.

When it was evident that the house was doomed and the red wall of flame, urged by the hurricane, was sweeping towards it with terrific speed, Miss Kirkland saw that she could rescue nothing except what she instantly took in her hands. There were two objects equally dear—the parrot and the old family Bible—but she was unable to carry more than one of them. After a single moment of choice she seized the Bible and was hastening away when the parrot cried out in a loud voice, "Good Lord, deliver us!" No human being, I think, could have been deaf to such an appeal; the precious Bible was sacrificed and the parrot saved.

The bird really possessed a superior intelligence. I heard him say "Yes" and "No" in answer to questions, the latter being varied so as to admit alternately of both replies, and the test of his knowledge was perfect. In the home were he found a refuge there were many evening visitors, one of whom, a gentleman, was noted for his monopoly of the conversation. When the parrot first heard him it listened in silence for some time; then, to the amazement and perhaps the confusion of all present, it said very emphatically "You talk too much!" The gentleman, at first somewhat embarrassed, presently resumed his interrupted discourse. Thereupon the parrot laid his head on one side, gave an indescribable and comical "H'm-m!" and added, "There he goes again!" If there ever was an oiseau terrible it is the parrot; his instinct for discovering ways and means for annoying, is something diabolical.

Recipes.

MUSH.—Mush made in this way is excellent—Boil a quart of water. Stir a pint of cold milk with one pint of corn-meal and one tablespoonful of salt. Pour this into the boiling water gradually, and let it all boil for half an hour. Watch it carefully to prevent burning.

PEPPER POT.—Boil six pounds of tripe for one hour, then take it from the water in which it has boiled and put it in fresh water with a knuckle of veal. Let these boil for two hours, then put in some potatoes, onions, carrots, a little parsley, some celery salt or stalks of celery, and any other herb or vegetable your taste demands; plenty of salt is essential, and considerable black pepper. When the tripe is tender cut it in small bits, and put it back in the kettle. After removing the vegetables make a nice gravy.

AYER'S PILLS.

For the prevention of the diseases which arise from derangements of the stomach, bowels, and liver, AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS act directly upon the organs, and are especially designed to cure the diseases caused by their derangement, including Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, Dysentery, and a host of other ailments, for all of which they are a safe, sure, prompt, and reliable remedy. The extensive use of these Pills by eminent physicians in regular practice, proves unmistakably the estimation in which they are held by the medical profession.

AYER'S PILLS are compounded of vegetable substances only, and are absolutely free from mercury or any other injurious ingredient.

A. SAUNDERS, from Headache writes: "AYER'S PILLS are invaluable to me, and as a household companion, I have been for years. Suffering from Headache, and your PILLS are the only thing I could look to for relief. One dose will quickly move my bowels, and free my head from pain. They are the most effective and the easiest physic I have ever found. It is a pleasure to me to speak in their praise, and I always do so on occasion offers.

W. L. PAGE, of W. L. Page & Bro., Franklin St., Richmond, Va., June 3, 1882.

"I have used AYER'S PILLS in numberless instances as recommended by you, and have never known them to fail to accomplish the desired result. We constantly keep them on hand at our home, and prize them as a pleasant, safe, and reliable family medicine. FOR DYSPEPSIA they are invaluable.

J. T. HAYES."

Mexia, Texas, June 17, 1882.

The REV. FRANCIS B. HARLOWE, writing from Atlanta, Ga., says: "For some years past I have been subject to constipation, from which, in spite of the use of medicines of various kinds, I suffered increasing inconvenience, until some months ago I began taking AYER'S PILLS. They have entirely corrected the costive habit, and have vastly improved my general health."

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS correct irregularities of the bowels, stimulate the appetite and digestion, and by their prompt and thorough action give tone and vigor to the whole physical economy.

Rheumatic SYRUP.

The Greatest Blood Purifier Known!

RHEUMATISM CURED.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Apr. 6th, '83.
Rheumatic Syrup Co.:
GENTS—I have been a great sufferer from Rheumatism for six years, and hearing of the success of Rheumatic Syrup I concluded to give it a trial in my own case, and I cheerfully say that I have been greatly benefited by its use. I can walk with entire freedom from pain, and my general health is very much improved. It is a splendid remedy for the blood and debilitated system.

SCROFULA CURED.

PORT BYRON, N. Y., Feb. 20, '82.
Rheumatic Syrup Co.:
I had been doctoring for three or four years, with different physicians, for scrofula, as some called it, but found no relief until I commenced taking your Syrup. After taking it a short time, to my surprise, it began to help me. Continuing its use a few weeks, I found myself as well as ever. As a blood purifier, I think it has no equal.
MRS. WILLIAM STRANG.

NEURALGIA CURED.

FAIRPORT, N. Y., March 12, '83.
Rheumatic Syrup Co.:
GENTS—Since November, 1882, I have been a constant sufferer from neuralgia and have not known what it was to be free from pain until I commenced the use of Rheumatic Syrup. I have felt no pain since using the fourth bottle. I think it the best remedy I have ever heard of for purifying the blood and for the cure of rheumatism and neuralgia.
