Amid the general acclaim over the appointment of General George C. Marshall, as Secretary of Defense, there arose in the Senate several Republican Senators, somewhat shocked by the outspoken language of the Republican leader of the United States Senate, William E. Jenner, of Indiana, to deliver a speech in favor of General Marshall in connection with the prosecution of Communism across the earth. Mr. Jenner's speech was received with great surprise and was considered by some as a threat to the Americanism of the United States.

Just because some individuals prefer charges, based upon what some call 'unthinking and partisan Americans,' does not mean that one of the differences between Americanism and Communism is that the latter can be defined by a single characteristic or action. It is important to recognize the complexity of these differences and to understand that both Americanism and Communism have their own unique set of principles and values.

Furthermore, it is crucial to acknowledge the importance of local government and its role in the community. This is why local government must be involved in the formulation of policies and decisions that affect the lives of its citizens. In this way, we can ensure that the voices of our community members are heard and that the needs of our neighborhoods are met.

Protect Individual Rights

Individual freedom and constitutional rights in the United States become nonexistent if anyone can come forward with an accusation against an individual and the accused is then penalized by the loss of employment unless he, or she, can prove innocence. Any such action would threaten the very foundation of our society.
