Northern Tribune, Gouverneur, N. Y.

Saturday, June 21st, 1873

EDUCATIONAL

The Department belongs to the school of the town.教学 is being extended and improved, and it is being better understood. It is the aim of the public schools to provide the best education possible for all children. In the past, the teaching of reading and writing was considered the most important aspect of education, but now more emphasis is placed on other subjects such as mathematics, science, and history.

THE LEAF

For the inquiry, "What extent and Kindergarten?"

The School of the town will be opened in four weeks. It will be under the direction of Mr. Smith, who has been a successful teacher for many years. The school will be open to children of all ages and will provide a comprehensive education in reading, writing, arithmetic, and geography.

AMERICAN public school is one of the most practical and thorough systems of education that the country has. It is a system that recognizes the need for a well-rounded education for all children. In the American public school system, children are taught reading, writing, arithmetic, geography, and other subjects. They are also taught to think critically, to work cooperatively, and to be good citizens.

SOME PIETAS—R. B.

It is always easy for me to select the best of the world's paintings, but I have never been able to do so in these times of rapid change and development. I have always been struck by the fact that the paintings of the past are often better than those of the present. The paintings of the past are often more truly representative of the spirit of the time, and they are often more lasting in their effect on the world.

Some of the best paintings of the past are those by artists such as Rembrandt, Vermeer, and van Gogh. Their works are a true expression of the spirit of the time, and they have a lasting effect on the world. The paintings of the past are a true expression of the spirit of the time, and they have a lasting effect on the world. The paintings of the past are a true expression of the spirit of the time, and they have a lasting effect on the world. The paintings of the past are a true expression of the spirit of the time, and they have a lasting effect on the world.