

ADVICE ON FRUIT VARIETIES
Horticulturists at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva stand ready to give expert advice on the selection of fruit varieties for planting next spring. Most of the varieties of hardy fruits offered for sale by American nurseries and many sorts from foreign countries have been grown or are now being tested on the Station grounds, and from the results of these tests and with their knowledge of fruit growing in this and neighboring states, the Station specialists are able to predict with a fair degree of accuracy the behavior of almost any variety brought to their attention.

New York Central
service to industries

Dependable railroad service is vital to the success of industrial operations.

New industries prefer a location on the New York Central because of the assurance this gives of dependable railroad service day after day.

New York Central Lines, because they are always building for the greater traffic of the future, have a transportation reserve to meet the demands of peak traffic, just as they had in 1918 when called upon to serve the Nation in the war emergency.

A location on the New York Central Lines is a business asset.
