Lillian Hungrige of Highland Beach, N.J., died Wednesday, Sept. 25, 1991, at St. Peter's Medical Center, New Brunswick, N.J. She was 81. A native of Brooklyn, N.Y., she was the daughter of the late Stephen and Anna (Kapshen) Hungrige of Highland Beach, N.J. She was the widow of Arthur E. Hungrige of Highland Beach. She was a member of the Apostles Church in Highland Beach, N.J., and the Holy Family Rosary Society.

Survivors include her son, Thomas M. Hungrige of East Brunswick, N.J.; a stepson, Kenneth G. Hungrige of Ormond Beach, Fla.; a daughter, Ann E. Hungrige of Highland Beach; two sisters, Anne M. Hungrige of Kansas City, Mo., and Agnes Hungrige of Highland Beach; and five grandchildren.

A funeral Mass will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow at St. Peter's Medical Center, New Brunswick, N.J. Interment will be in Our Lady of Peace Cemetery, Highland Beach, N.J.

PUBLIC RECORD

OF INTEREST

Coughlin says budget mixup made him lay off too many

Rockefeller aide Hugh Morrow dies

HUGH MORROW, the top aide of Vice President George Bush, Richard C. Coughlin, in a recent interview, said: "We're going to save money because of the budget troubles." Morrow, who is a member of the Bush administration's economic team, has been in charge of the budget since the start of the administration.

The assistant to the vice president has been under pressure to save government money because of the budget shortfall.

Morrow was a member of the Bush administration's economic team. He has been in charge of the budget since the start of the administration. Morrow has been under pressure to save government money because of the budget shortfall.

BIRTHS

