

LOCAL PAIR SAY VOWS IN SERVICE

Coleman-Longoverde
Newark—In a lovely "Rainbow Wedding" ceremony last Saturday, May 3, 1941, at 9:30 a. m. in St. Michael's Church, Miss Josephine Longoverde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Longoverde of 129 Sherman Ave., Newark, became the bride of Alphonse J. Coleman, 154 West Union St., Newark, son of Mrs. Mary Coleman of 18 Weyl St., Rochester. The church was decorated with hollyhock, palms, snapdragons and ferns. The Rev. J. J. Ganey performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was veiled in a gown of white tulle over satin, with a full length veil. Her train was trimmed with white lace and she wore a necklace of pearls. She carried a center of white roses with a center of orchids, and satin streamers tied with white sweet peas.

Miss Lucy Longoverde of 129 Sherman Ave., Newark, sister of the bride, and maid of honor, as gowned in pale pink tulle, princess style, with a heart shaped hat of matching material. She carried an arm bouquet of deep pink roses tied with pink ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Theresa Colacino of 311 North Main St., Newark, Miss Gallast of Rochester, cousin of the bridegroom, and Miss Mary DeAngelis of 158 North Main St., Newark. They wore white tulle gowns with full tulle skirts, and matching five-point halos. Miss Colacino's gown was light orchid, and she carried a bouquet of pale pink rosebuds with orchid ribbon. Miss Masi's gown was pale yellow, and her bouquet of pale pink roses was tied with yellow ribbon. Miss DeAngelis wore powder blue, and her arm bouquet of pale pink roses was tied with blue ribbon.

Jean Fisher and Joan Petrus of Newark, nieces of the bride, were flower girls. They wore gowns with full tulle skirts, similar to those of the bridesmaids, and carried baskets of flowers and wore matching halos of sweet peas. They also wore heart-shaped gold lockets, gifts of the bride. Jean's gown was pale blue, and Joan's was pink.

Best man was Dick Brennan of 1509 Harold Pitts of Hoffman St., Newark, Francis L. Yarn of Clifton Springs, N. Y., and James Dann of Rochester. They were ushers. Gift of the bridegroom to the best man and bridesmaid was a key chain with cameo and gold clasp.

The mother of the bride wore a gown of blue with dark blue accessories and a corsage of orchids. The bridegroom wore a tulle dress with matching accessories and corsage of orchids.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at 2:30 p. m. at the Royal Villa for the immediate families. Out-of-town guests were present from Rochester and Clifton Springs.

The young couple left on a wedding trip to Jamestown, N. Y., and a tour of the Southern State. Upon their return they will make their home on Colton Ave., Newark.

The bride is a graduate of Newark High School in the class of 1939. The bridegroom is a graduate of Aquinas Institute in the class of 1937, and of the Simmons School of Embalming, Syracuse, in 1938.

Receptional functions included a shower by Mrs. Joseph Longoverde, mother of the bride, a kitchen and grocery shower by Mrs. Joseph Petrus, a variety shower by the Misses Mary DeAngelis and Theresa Colacino, and a linen shower by Miss Lucy Longoverde, and a dinner for the bride and bridegroom given by Mrs. Katherine Roche and Vincent Roche.

RED CROSS RECEIVES NEW QUOTA

The Wayne County Chapter, American Red Cross, is collecting garments from the volunteer production units preparatory to sending them to Jersey City for shipment overseas.

Boats of various nationalities are taking cargoes to foreign ports each week, Red Cross officials report.

The Wayne County Chapter of the Red Cross has just received from the National Red Cross its production quota for the next seven months.

The county is expected to provide the following articles, to be sent from here by Dec. 31, 1941: Forty men's sweaters, 80 women's sweaters, 180 children's sweaters, 60 children's knitted suits, 96 bedshirts, 34 operating gowns, 50 hospital pajamas, 60 complete layettes, 24 women's cotton dresses, 64 girls' cotton dresses, 37 women's woolen skirts, 100 girls' woolen skirts, 50 women's woolen dresses, 150 girls' woolen dresses, 60 boys' shirts, and 40 "toddlers packs".

These toddler packs contain the following garments: One sweater, 1 pair mittens, 1 "beanie" cap, 2 pairs rompers, 1 woolen snow suit, 3 pair woolen undershirts, 2 sleeping garments of outing flannel, and 10 diapers.

Yarn and material for the articles will be furnished by the National Red Cross.

First individual acknowledgment of goods came to the local Red Cross last week from Seaman E. Muir of the British minesweeper "E. M. Marconi" from the labels on garments recipients know from which American community the material is sent.

Seaman Muir's letter follows:

Seaman R. Muir
H.M.T. Marconi
o/o G.P.O.
London

Dear American Friends:

I feel I must thank you for the socks I received from your Red Cross movement. You are helping us in more ways than one and we are profoundly grateful to our brothers and sisters on the other side of the Atlantic.

We are putting up a grand fight over here and with your help we cannot lose. We are fighting for something which we both respect, "Democracy," and with that thing in our blood we will fight on till victory is ours.

Ours is a dangerous and hard task, a job of nerves and a game of death, yet our hearts are strong and we face it without a fear, knowing that every time we sweep a mine up, we save a valuable cargo, which is most vital to our country.

In these dark hours, in which we are all taken from our homes and our parents to stop a maniac from dominating the world our only pleasure is a letter from home, or friends. I would like to write to any lady who would wish to correspond with me. It would bring me great pleasure and I would be most grateful.

I have been in this war now for sixteen months. I have had some hard times, but, as usual, I have been lucky and escaped uninjured. I was at Zebrugge and Calais when they were captured, and was sunk at Dunkirk, but still I am quite confident of a victory in the near future.

Best of luck and good wishes. Carry on America.

Yours sincerely,
SEAMAN R. MUIR.

SERVICES OF FAMILY UNIT TOLD

This is the final of a series of articles on work done by the six organizations affiliated with the Arcadia Community Chest. They have been prepared by Eugene Bolles, publicity chairman, Arcadia Community Chest.

The primary objective of the Family Welfare Society of Arcadia is to furnish needed services to local individuals and families of a nature not given by any public welfare department.

Obviously dealing of this personal nature are confidential in character, and while case records are prepared carefully by the executive secretary, they are accessible only to the case committee and the officers of the society who study them closely before service is given.

A glance at figures furnished by the executive secretary, covering the past year, gives an idea of the wide scope and high value of the work done for Arcadia families by the society and its volunteer groups.

During the year 95 cases have been served by the society. Of these, 9 concerned single men or women; 62 were complete family units; 22 were families broken by divorce, separation of parents or death of one or both.

Applications for help came from a variety of sources: 34 were made by individuals themselves; 26 were referred by doctors, ministers, lawyers, relatives, friends or neighbors; 16 were referred by public agencies or other social organizations; 18 were referred by schools because of problems in the homes that interfered with the education of the children; 3 were referred by courts and police.

A further analysis discloses the broad types of aid rendered by the society in the problems presented. Of the 95 cases, 23 were economic problems—unemployment, under employment, debt and financial mismanagement; 28 were physical problems—industrial accidents, tuberculosis, malnutrition, old age and other physical disabilities; death; 3 were mental problems—mental disease or defectiveness; 27 were personality or behavior problems—intemperance, conflict between parents and children, desertion, non-support, neglect of children and delinquency, and 4 cases came from environmental factors—broken homes, poor housing, lack of education and legal entanglements.

The giving of material relief absorbs about 25 per cent of the funds used by the society. Normally such relief is given only to border line cases, or in special instances where needed, to supplement public relief. Fourteen of the 95 families received material aid because they were not eligible for public relief; 20 of the families were on public relief and were given service other than financial aid; 17 families that were receiving ### aid from the Department of Public Welfare, were given additional relief by the society, and 44 families received no material relief. Dental care for 13 persons cost the society $227.

In other projects, sponsored by the society and carried with the cooperation of volunteers and other groups, a considerable amount of clothing was furnished to needy families. Christmas orders were given to 104 less fortunate families, and toys were given to 240 children at Christmas time.

All of these activities have involved a large amount of work. In the first and a half months since the present secretary, Miss Hilda Sheppard, began her duties here, 678 contacts have been had with families, and 407 contacts have been made with other people in connection with these cases.
