J. P. Morgan's Testimony Causes a Huge Sensation Wets Pile Up 6 to 1 Lead in New York State

Head of Morgan Firm Admits No Income Tax Payments in Two Years

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The investigation by the Senate Committee today of the financial House of Morgan caused a sensation in political and commercial circles as it was brought to light that the gigantic banking firm, with over five hundred millions of assets and commercial interests in all countries of the globe had paid a mere $47,000 tax to the government. It also came to light that Morgan himself had paid no income tax to the government the past two years.

Much dissension broke out among the Senate investigators relative to securing income statements from the Morgan organization. Senator Glass and counsel Pecora locked horns over the issue due to the persistence of Pecora in asking the question with Glass explaining that such was unnecessary as all reports were on file in the Internal Revenue department. Finally so hot became the debate that the committee recessed to a committee room to argue the matter.

At the outset of the investigation Mr. Morgan read a paper which in general defended the private banker and his organization. Following the paper Mr. Pecora asked for the articles of partnership but was refused. It was brought out by Pecora that the private banks were not subject to the State banking laws nor to any legal control but could do as they saw fit. No statements or investigations of the House had ever been made by state or national governments although the Morgan firm had submitted statements to the Federal Reserve Bank because "of business reasons." Mr. Morgan also stated that his firm would accept small deposits ranging down to "a few thousand dollars but did not encourage them."

The investigation will be resumed tomorrow when others will be summoned. These include ten of the Morgan partners and the famed VanSweringen brothers of Cleveland together with President G. H. Howard of the United Corporation, an alleged Morgan holding company.

The committee decided at a meeting late today to tear the lid off the Morgan transaction regardless of the consequences and it was predicted that an explosion which would startle the country would occur tomorrow. It is rumored that several high officials of the Hoover administration and one of the present administration are mentioned in correspondence as having had dealings with the Morgan firm.

G. O. P. Mentor Wary on Mayoralty Talk But He May Support Mrs. Graves

Considerable noisy gossip is beginning to be heard in connection with the coming municipal election to be held next fall. Both Democratic and Republican leaders are loth to take a position now as to whom their respective organizations will support to succeed Mayor Morrisette in the mayoralty chair. The mayor has announced his candidacy already.

Republican leaders would be in high glee if Frank A. Augsbury would consent to the use of his name but to a reporter of the Advance-News who had a talk with him yesterday he expressed strong opposition to any such a movement in his behalf on the part of his friends.

Asked if a committee of representative Republicans had recently visited him to gain his consent as their candidate for mayor, he denied that any such a delegation had discussed the matter with him.

Asked further, that in case the primary campaign as it developed showed strong Republican tendencies would he take such a position under consideration Mr.

Augsbury replied that it was too early to talk about something that was all in the air. "Mayor Morrisette is an announced candidate. He has worked industriously for a renomination. Wait a while longer and then it may be seen whether the Republicans want the present mayor for two more years as the head of the municipal affairs of Ogdensburg," Mr. Augsbury said.

Mr. Augsbury was in a jocular frame of mind and quizzed the reporter about state and national affairs but seemed to be averse to going deeply into city politics.

Speaking of the coming assembly fight, the G. O. P. mentor was asked if he did not consider Mrs. Graves as a better legislator than Mr. Nowell. He said he did.

Mr. Augsbury will probably support Mrs. Graves if she should declare herself a candidate for her former position in the assembly. Although he did not make that statement his talk leaned that way.

On the city judgeship he said Donald E. Sanford had been to see him and that he consented to sgg

Pirates Win from Brooklyn—
Yankees Take Game from Cleveland.

NEW YORK, May 23.—The Pirates defeated Brooklyn's Dodgers 3-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Steve Swetonic today. The Giants again took the measure of the Cincinnati club 6-4. Roy Parmelee, Giant pitcher, connected for a homer in the second inning of this game but failed to finish the contest, and was relieved by Adolf Lague in the 6th. Despite homers by Gabby Hartnett and English the Cubs bowed to the clouting Phillies, 9-5. The Phils collected 19 hits, including a homer by third baseman Whitney.

In the American League the Yanks laid down a barrage of four base hits to subdue the Indians, 8-6. Yanks to hit for the circuit were Ruth, Gehrig, Coombs and Chapman. Ruth's homer today concluded his longest active playing period without a homer since he has worn a New York uniform. Other homers were scored by Foxx and Johnson of the Athletics and Simmons of Chicago.

An International Leaguer, Ike Boone of Toronto, who is one of the largest ball players in captivity, got three hits today and finished his 29th straight game in which he has hit safely. This lad has had the high seasonal batting average in every league he has ever played in. The lowest batting average he has ever had is .323 and the highest .447. The wets scored an overwhelming victory in the state election held yesterday to choose delegates to the constitutional convention at Albany June 27. The repeal delegates, who were elected at large, carried the state by the ratio of 6 to 1, according to estimates based on figures available at midnight.

A million votes were cast in New York city. With half of the districts in the metropolis reporting the vote was 442,000 wet to 9,000 dry.

The results were closer in some of the up-state counties but the indications at a late hour were that the majority of them cast their votes for the repeal candidates.

Ogdensburg went wet by a majority of 2,717, a ratio of nearly 10 to 1 on a 50 per cent vote. The totals were 3,067 and 350.

St. Lawrence county was claimed by the wets at midnight by between 4,500 and 5,000 majority. A few of the towns were carried by the dries. Massena turned in a big wet majority. Lisbon went dry 4 to 1. That town has been on a no license basis for over 60 years. The wets carried Gouverneur and Canton but the vote was close.
