

PLANS RELIEF JOBS ON PUBLIC WORKS

Hopkins Acts to Have Men Now Receiving Aid Get Employment on Projects.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Action which is expected by officials to take thousands of unemployed heads of families off the relief rolls of the Federal, State and local governments by putting them on the payrolls of public-works projects was announced by Harry L. Hopkins, Emergency Relief Administrator.

It is planned to establish "a vital coordinating link" between the Federal Emergency Relief Administration and the United States Employment Service. The two agencies will combine efforts to place immediately a maximum number of workers on public projects.

With this objective, State officials in charge of the relief and employment services are carrying out arrangements made a few days ago in Washington for localities. The United States Employment Service provides the liaison between public-works projects and the State and other local offices of the Emergency Relief Administration.

The State and local agencies are now caring for about 4,000,000 heads of families who are dependent upon public aid. Mr. Hopkins is convinced that through the new placement system large numbers of these persons will be returned to a self-supporting status.

The Federal Emergency Relief Administration approved today grants totaling $5,781,601 to four States, Wisconsin, Massachusetts, Louisiana and Kentucky. Of this $2,074,861 was allotted to Wisconsin, $1,598,554 to Massachusetts, $987,777 to Louisiana and $820,411 to Kentucky.

The allotment to Kentucky was a partial reimbursement on the matching basis of $1 to $3 of State expenditure during the second quarter of this year. Mr. Hopkins has notified Governor Laffoon that, unless the State acts to guarantee its part of the relief burden, no further payments will be made to Kentucky after Aug. 15.

The allotments brought the total so far to all States and Territories to $8,075,493.

Federation Convenes in Power City

Annual Meeting of the Northern Chambers Held at Massena Country Club.

MASSENA, July 20.—The various units of the Northern Federation of Chamber of Commerce were represented at the annual meeting of the federation for a business meeting and play-off at the Massena Country Club today.

Among those present were Congressman Bertrand H. Snell of Potsdam.

Activities for the day started at 10 o'clock in the morning when the delegates and guests played a nine-hole golf tournament and took a motor-trip over the site of the St. Lawrence river power development. Mayor Thomas S. Bushnell of Massena conducted the sight-seeing trip and explained the proposed development and other features, using maps and pictures showing how this section of the river will appear when the project is completed.

Dinner was served at the clubhouse at 1 o'clock, after which a short business session convened. A report of the federation's milk committee was given by Earl Laidlaw of Gouverneur, chairman. William T. Fields of Watertown, an architect, discussed plans for further industrialization of Northern New York. President Kirkbride made his report and a report of the federation's treasurer, Albert Newell of Ogdensburg, was made. Officers were elected for the coming year.

Kay Bros. Circus Will Exhibit in City Today

The Kay Bros. circus comes to Woodford Farms circus grounds today. A large and modern motorized circus show will be here today only, giving two performances, one at 2 p. m. and the second at 8 p. m.

The Kay Bros. circus boasts of many varied and thrilling performances. Among the many feature attractions of the performances are the Four Millers, a troupe of spectacular aerialists, presenting an amazing routine of daring feats high in the great canvas dome. Miss Mary Blen, the petite and charming star of the act, which is one of the most brilliant performances of European circusdom being featured recently in the Wirth circus in Australia. Another outstanding attraction is the Foster Trio. And as the animal features, Captain Walker has a large troupe of performing ponies, monkeys, dogs and other animals who display almost human intelligence in the sawdust rings.

The entertainment includes everything known to the American circus. Of course no circus could be complete without wild animals—as elephants, camels, etc., and Kay Bros. will not disappoint.

STATION WAS ESTABLISHED FIVE YRS. AGO

Clarence Skelly Celebrating Anniversary of Business Today.

Skelly's Service Station, under the management of Clarence Skelly, will celebrate its fifth birthday today. Skelly's is recognized as one of the most modern service stations in the state. Every convenience and necessity for the motorists is available here. Service has always been the watchword at Skelly's. Mr. Skelly at this time wishes to thank the car owners of Ogdensburg and vicinity for making possible the success he has attained during the past five years. A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to drive in and join in the celebration. Many free gifts and special prices on washing, greasing and Goodrich tires are offered. Every person making a purchase will be given a chance to guess how many tires comprise the big scrap pile on display. The person who makes the correct guess will be given a tire for his or her car. A sensational trade-in allowance is offered on your old tires. A beautiful rubber bridge table cover will be given free with every car wash. A complete car lubrication will be given with every oil change and with every purchase of five dollars or over an eighteen piece golden glass luncheon set will be given free. Toy balloons will be given the children. Key cases will be given free to car owners and to the first two hundred customers entering the station a beautiful chromium plated Safety Leaze Emblem with red crystal reflector to protect you if the tail light should go out will also be given. Mr. Skelly has extended himself to the utmost to make the fifth anniversary of the Skelly Service Station a long to be remembered one. So plan to pay him a visit on Friday or Saturday.

TRAIN KILLS FARMER AT WATERTOWN

Nellis Haskins, 55, Chaumont farm hand, was instantly killed early yesterday when he was struck by a north bound train near the railroad crossing at the Municipal dump in Watertown. It is believed he had fallen asleep after sitting on the rails to rest.

The body was discovered by the victim's brother-in-law, Ernest Wescott, night caretaker at the dump, who had gone to the crossing to open the gates for the day watchman. The gates are only several feet from the railroad tracks. Identification was made by a billfold, safety razor and the fact that his right little finger was amputated.

TWIN BABIES BORN

Twin daughters were born to Mr. and Mrs. Chester LaRaff of Massena at the A. Barton Hepburn hospital yesterday. Mother and infants were reported to be progressing finely.

Doctors are, consequently, adding to the family picnic basket.

POLICE GAZETTE BACK

NEW YORK, July 20.—The Police Gazette is to be sent back to the barbershops, and in its new lease of life it may even get into the beauty parlors.

Mrs. Merle Williams Hersey, a little gray-haired, quiet, middle-aged woman, who is going to revive the pink sensation sheet, said today she believed the Police Gazette went bankrupt and had to discontinue publication two years ago because it was "too tame."

Their Dreams Come True

Fortune smiled on these three, winners of the main prizes in the $10,000 Sunny Jim jingle contest conducted by an eastern cereal manufacturer. Mrs. Margaret Stack (center), Philadelphia housewife, won the first prize of $1,000. She is shown with Buddy, age 9, the youngest of her four children. Left is Martha Elizabeth Dynes, Boston schoolgirl, who won the second award of $1,500. John Bell, (right), unemployed Belleville, N. J., chauffeur, won $500.

SUFFERED N. Y. — The Stack family of 1236 West Boston Ave., Philadelphia, has been having a hard battle in the last two depression years ever since Michael Stack lost his job as a bookbinder. The rent is many months overdue. Mrs. Margaret Stack, his wife and the mother of four children, is glad to get part-time work in a carpet factory. Their oldest son is with the reforestation army. Their oldest daughter has a new baby. The two youngest boys need many things.

This week the Hecker HO Company, Inc., of this city announced that first prize of $5,000 in their $10,000 Sunny Jim contest was awarded to a Mrs. Stack of Philadelphia—and there was joy in the Stack household.

Family debts will be paid off with the money, the hard-working mother will get some badly needed medical attention and the boys various possessions they have long coveted—and the rest of the windfall will be put safely away.

John Bell, of Belleville, N. J., felt somewhat the same thrill when told he had won the third prize of $500, for he has been jobless since 1931, when an automobile accident sent him to the hospital for months. The second prize of $1,500 will provide funds for the college education of Miss Martha E. Dynes, 16-year-old Boston schoolgirl. Three hundred and seventy-five other contestants are receiving lesser prizes as their awards in the contest, in which thousands of amateur jingle writers participated.
