The Gas He'll Burn This Morning Would Take You 7500 Miles! The skipper of "Fighter X" is going hunting... for the next five hours he'll be combing the skies for signs of Jap marauders. And on his patrol, he will burn 500 gallons of gasoline... enough for a year of peacetime driving in the average family car! Maybe that will give you some idea of the enormous amount of oil—for aviation gas and other petroleum products—that it takes to win a war. Oil to fuel 100,000 planes... a quarter-million tanks and motorized vehicles... the world's greatest fleet of warships and transports... the furnaces of thousands of roaring war plants. Oil that must be carried from the wells of the Southwest to the refineries, factories and ports of the East. And, though it's one of the war's toughest jobs, the oil is coming through! Rolling like a mighty river over America's rails... almost a million barrels a day! It's coming

RHYMES FOR WAR TIMES... Your Vacuum Cleaner. I am the cleaner, by some called a "vacuum." That cleans your house from attic to backroom. I have a long cord and a bright metal snout. That goes over your rugs and sucks the dirt out. To get best results, these things remember: Keep the bag empty from Jan. through December. Don't yank on the cord, keep it carefully coiled. The brush should be clean and the motor well oiled. And if I should ever need major repair, Your nearby electrician is always right there. SOME DON'TS ABOUT YOUR VACUUM CLEANER 1. DON'T run cleaner over pins, paper clips, hair pins, etc., first. They're apt to dent the fan of your cleaner, or even cut the fan belt. 2. DON'T push cleaner fast... It'll miss some of the dirt if you do! Allow about 20 minutes weekly cleaning time for 9 x 12 rugs and proportionate time for other sizes. 3. DON'T wash dust bag... make sure you empty bag after every using, but never wash it because soap and water will ruin it. Once a month clean bag thoroughly. 4. DON'T neglect brush... snip string and strands when they tangle in brush. If threads aren't picked up look for worn bristles. Replace brush if needed.
