Our Peace Envoys Emphasize Importance of Victory Loan

In a message to the American people the United States delegates to the Peace Conference at Paris, Secretary of State Robert Lansing, General Tasker H. Bliss, Colonel E. M. House and Henry White, emphasize the necessity for successfully floating the Victory Liberty Loan. The importance of making the Allies' victory complete is stressed in the statement that it is necessary that internationally as well as nationally the campaign go "over the top."

The message reads:

"We have had the opportunity here in France to see and realize the magnitude of the accomplishment of our country in this war and the magnificent spirit with which this great task has been carried through to a triumphant issue.

"What has been done and what remains to be done before normal conditions are restored demand your continued and united support with the same spirit of self-sacrifice and of determination as that which was manifested by the nation while the German armies faced our men at the Marne and in the Champagne, at St. Mihiel and in the Argonne. We must not relax our efforts until every soldier of the republic is landed on the soil of America.

"To finish this mighty task imposes upon the government of the United States a great financial burden. The Victory Liberty Loan must thrive. If it should fail it would indicate that the nation is willing to leave its task uncompleted.

"To secure the ideals for which Americans fought and died this great demand on national patriotism and united effort should meet a generous and universal response. Let us all do our duty to the end.

"ROBERT LANSING, "E. M. HOUSE, "HENRY WHITE, "T. H. BLISS."

'RICHEST BOY' TO SPEND ONLY A DOLLAR A WEEK

Thomas Austin Yawkey Intends to Continue the Practice of Thrift.

He used to have a quarter a week to spend and now he's worth $20,000,000, but early habits of thrift—such as the Government seeks to encourage through War Savings Stamps campaigns—have kept wealth from turning the head of sixteen-year-old Thomas Austin Yawkey, a student in the Washington Irving School, of Tarrytown, N. Y. He has become the "Richest Boy in America," through a bequest of his uncle, William H. Yawkey, of New York City. His attitude towards his recent inheritance is almost ideal from the standpoint of thrift.

In the private school to which he was sent in his ninth year, Tom was trained to frugal living. His spending money was regulated to a quarter a week, the disposal of which he always accounted for. Now his weekly allowance will be raised to a dollar, but he intends to still keep a careful account of how it is spent.

The boy appreciates a thrifty life and means to live it. He is content to get along each week on the price of four Thrift Stamps. He wants to be a good business man and a wise philanthropist. He already is planning how to take care of his fortune in a way that will do the most good for the world. He intends to spend far less than his income and to employ the surplus in charitable work.

Tom's ideas of thrifty living and the application of his surplus income for charity are unquestionably good ones. The United States Government has made it possible for everyone to do likewise, perhaps on a smaller scale, but with equal benefit to themselves.

The purchase of Thrift Stamps and of War Savings Stamps is a sure and steady means of establishing a sum for future use. Living well within one's income is one of the first rules of thrift. Putting the small amounts away in such an elastic medium as War Savings Stamps is the next step in the provision for future happiness. Such saving removes the handicaps of so many people who really want to do good, but who never have made any definite effort to provide themselves with capital.

PUPILS GET THRIFT BOOKS.

Practically every child in every school throughout New York state and the twelve northern counties of New Jersey has received a Penny Savings School Book, issued to help children save for thrift stamps. Many innovations are being introduced in this work in the schools. Well known military experts and young officers of the aviation corps will address the youngsters. Pictorial releases and other features will be used to arouse patriotism. Reports from leading cities of the state show a remarkable increase in War Savings Societies. Buffalo, Rochester and Hampton making a particularly good record.
