

Outgrown the Kennel

When Heck was a pup, his Kennel was ample. But Heck grew up. When you built your house or other property your fire insurance was probably ample. But values have soared. Do not let a fire find you only partly protected. We will gladly assume the risk in a sound Company.

Whistling for Wind.
Everybody is familiar with the old superstition of sailors that, to bring a favorable breeze, they must whistle during the calm. From the remotest times there seems to have prevailed a belief that libation or sacrifice would placate the storm spirits and induce them to permit the vessel to proceed unmolested on its course. Russian sailors have been known to pour oatmeal and water over a rocky promontory in order to obtain a wind favorable to their designs.

The English Language.
It is estimated that over 140,000,000 people now speak the English language, over 51,000,000 the French, 75,000,000 German, 35,000,000 Italian, 42,000,000 Spanish, 13,000,000 Portuguese and 75,000,000 Russian.

The Charge Account

By EVELYN LEE

"The mischief!" Percy Bliss was not given to the use of forcible expletives and this ejaculation expressed all the wonderment, dismay and anxiety of which he was capable. He stood dazed, almost pallid, after a vivid shock, staring blankly at a sheet of paper in his hand. He had come home to his sumptuous flat which housed his beloved and cherished bride of a year, to find her absent, and then, making a startling discovery, to his disturbed imagination its beauty and comfort seemed fading into desolate ruins all about him.

"Which did not and does not matter. I would give ten times the amount to get out of the dilemma in which my slight accommodation has placed me. You had been smitten with the stage beauty, Adrienne Ballingford, a year ago and written her some silly letters. "All true. I got the letters and paid you back the three hundred dollars you became responsible for." "Yes, and today, an unusual thing, for my bills usually come to my office, the one for those wretched goods came to my house. Dorothy read it. Just think what she must think of an order for two kimonos, six pairs of silk stockings and a lot of other follies of feminine adornment!" Blight looked startled now. "Why, say, if she learns the truth and it gets to the ears of Nellie's parents, think of the awful position I am in! Oh, my, a terrible mess I've made of it!" "I can't give you away," observed Percy in a troubled tone. "And I can't break up your household by allowing you to take the blame." For some moments the worried twain sat gloomily silent, mutually going over the situation. "I've got it!" cried Wallace suddenly, leaping to his feet. "Come with me. Right away straight to Day & Co.'s we'll go. Got the original bill?" "Yes." "We'll duplicate it." "What do you mean—what good will that do?" Wallace whispered in Percy's ear. Instantly the face of the latter brightened. They dashed from the office. One hour later the two schemers entered the Bliss flat. They carried a variety of bundles. The contents were stored in a drawer in Percy's desk. Two hours later still, with a relieved mind and bright eyes Percy again entered the flat. His wife greeted him with a tear-stained face. "Oh, Percy!" she sobbed, "I have found you out. How cruelly you have deceived me. Married on my birthday and our first anniversary here only day after tomorrow! Kimonos! silk stockings! a mesh bag! a fur coat! Oh, who is this mysterious female who has wrecked our home!" "Aha!" cried Percy, in an injured tone. "I think I surmise! Did that stupid Day & Co. send a bill to the house instead of to my office?" "Yes, they did."

"Dorothy, come here!" Percy led his wife into his den and up to his desk. He drew open its drawer. "It's a shame to spoil a surprise," he said, stern as a judge, "but the cat being out of the bag, I shall have to subdue your hysterics. There! You can't say I am not glad to think of you on your birthday." There lay all the articles Dorothy had named and many more. Over her face a great joyous glow began to spread. "Oh, you thoughtful, loyal darling!" she cried. "And I have so unjustly treated you! And there isn't any mysterious character! And you are the sweetest, dearest, king of husbands! So there! and there! and there!" And serenely Percy Bliss talked off each kiss awarded with a silent chuckle. "I've saved poor Wallace," he told himself with satisfaction, "but never again any experimenting with my charge account."

Not in Bull's Class.
Peter was out exercising his bulldog when a small white poodle ran up to the gate and began barking through the cracks of the gate at Peter's bulldog, which made him growl and raise his bristles as if he would chew the poodle up. Peter said to his dog: "Drop your bristles, Bull; nothing doing with such a little dog like that."

Brains Not Their Strong Point.
Even an oyster has a brain of a sort; and a clam likewise. The brains of fishes are very inferior, as compared with those of mammals, but the optic lobes are enormously developed, because finny creatures, to get the food they need, must be able to see well in dim light under water. Reptiles generally are very stupid creatures, and so it is not surprising to find that their brains are remarkably small. That of a 12-foot alligator is no bigger than your thumb.

Convincing Argument.
Showman—Walk in, ladies and gentlemen, and see the Astec giants, descendants of a long-extinct race!

Longest Ore Dock.
Duluth has an ore dock 2,439 feet long, the longest in the world.
