The Crown Point Hanger opened on July 28 after nearly five years of research by Mrs. James Fairchild of Lake George, who was joined in celebration by members of the Lake George Association of Women. The tower is a hangar in which the town’s residents will be able to store their aircraft. The hangar was built by the town’s only hangar company, the Hangar Company of America, which has been operating in central New York for the past 15 years.

The hangar features a two-story structure with a roof that can be raised or lowered to accommodate different types of aircraft. The building also includes a control tower and a maintenance area with space for up to 10 aircraft.

In addition to its use as a hangar, the building will also serve as a community center, with space for social events and meetings. The Crown Point Hanger is located at 120 Main St.

Crown Point Bank opens new branch office in Aviation Mall

The Crown Point Bank opened a new branch office in Aviation Mall on July 30. The bank will be open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Tom Yntema, the bank’s president, said that the new office will be staffed by a team of experienced bankers who will be able to provide customers with a wide range of financial services.

"We’re excited to open this new branch office," Yntema said. "Our goal is to provide our customers with the highest level of service and to be a valuable resource for the community."
