E. W. COON DEAD

Once Operated Fourteen Cheese Factories in Northern New York and Big Warehouse at Cape Vincent.

Edward W. Coon, about 62, prominent cheese dealer of Cape Vincent and Philadelphia, Pa., who died suddenly January 12 at Philadelphia of a heart attack following an attack of indigestion, was well known throughout northern New York, where he once maintained fourteen cheese factories.

Mr. Coon was ill only a few hours, being stricken on the night of January 11 after he had been connected with the Philadelphia office of the Kraft Phoenix Cheese Corporation.

Mr. Coon was the owner of the big cheese warehouse in Market street, Cape Vincent, which was destroyed by fire April 23, 1921. He was later involved in a long litigation in which he sought insurance for the destruction of the Cape Vincent plant. He brought claims aggregating $115,570 against eleven insurance companies in 1923, eventually recovering $120,000.

Mr. Coon was engaged in the cheese manufacturing business at Cape Vincent for about 18 years and became wealthy. He had always been identified with the cheese business, his father before him. He was married twice. His first wife died at Philadelphia, Pa., about 1922. On March 27, 1924, he married Mrs. Mary Lewis Parker in New York. She survives, beside a sister, Mrs. Nellie Engeman, of Philadelphia, and several nieces and nephews.

ENDS LIFE BY HANGING

August Slack's Body Found in the Barn at Home of Miss Elizabeth Fitzsimmons, Carthage.

August Slack, 45, took his own life about 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon by hanging in the barn at the home of Miss Elizabeth Fitzsimmons, 220 North James street, Carthage. The body was discovered by W. D. O'Hara, who lives next door and keeps his car in the Fitzsimmons' barn. There were still signs of life when the body was discovered by Mr. O'Hara, who notified the family, and when his brother, Charles Slack, arrived shortly, there were still signs of life. His brother thought that he was recognized by him.

The body was taken to the Fitzsimmons home and Dr. F. J. Lawler and Dr. E. C. Souls were notified. Every effort was made to revive him but without avail.

Mr. Slack was born in Carthage, August 16, 1891, a son of the late Edward and Mary Slack. He attended the local schools and at an early age entered the employ of the New York Central railroad as a brakeman. For the past few years he was unemployed, due to the curtailment of forces. Recently he had been employed at the Paper Makers Chemical Products plant on South James street, of which his brother, Charles Slack, is manager. He did not work Friday.

For the past three years he and his wife had resided at the home of Miss Fitzsimmons. Surviving are his wife, Alice O'Keefe Slack; three brothers, Charles and Clarence of Watertown, and William of Brockville, Ont.; two sisters, Miss Clara Slack, a primary teacher in the Carthage grade school, and Miss Anna Slack, who teaches in the Feltz Mills school.

BRIDE OF TWO WEEKS KILLED

Mrs. Leona M. Jarvis Victim of Accidental Shooting by Her Brother, Fred Simons.

Mrs. Leona May Simons Jarvis, 14, formerly of Watertown, who two weeks ago became the bride of Donald Jarvis, 26, of Wellesley Island, was fatally wounded shortly after 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Jarvis home, when she was accidentally shot through the abdomen by a .22 calibre bullet discharged from a rifle in the hands of her brother, Fred Simons, 16, who last October escaped from the state school of industry near Rochester.

The young bride died about 2:15 Wednesday afternoon at the home of Edward C. Lewis, of Collins Landing. Her brother was brought to the county jail at Watertown, where he was held on an open charge, awaiting action of the authorities of the Rochester institution.

The youth, who several times has escaped from the Rochester institution, is now being held at the House of Refuge at Randall's Island since he has now reached the age of 16.

The fatality happened at the Houghton farm at the head of Wellesley Island. Jarvis was out in the barn when he saw a team of horses preparatory to starting a trip across the ice to the main land. His wife and her brother were alone in the house at the time.

According to the story he related to the authorities, the Simons boy said he was loading a .22 Remington automatic rifle. Mrs. Jarvis was on her brother's left, handing him the cartridges and counting them as Fred inserted them into the rifle. The boy fired eleven cartridges in the gun, which he held across his lap, and was inserting the last one when the gun suddenly exploded, the charge entering his sister's abdomen.

Simons was committed to Randall's Island last summer after his first escape from Rochester industrial school, but was not admitted as he was then but 15, and was returned to Rochester, whence he escaped last October.

He became 16 in August and therefore is eligible to be admitted to the Randall's Island institution.

Frederick L. Stanton

Frederick L. Stanton, 42, died at his home in Carthage Sunday morning following a week's illness. Death was due to intestinal grip.

He was born in Nova Scotia, January 25, 1892, son of Richard and Emma Mackenzie Stanton. He came to Carthage 13 years ago and has been employed since as a mechanical engineer at the National Paper Products plant.

Mr. Stanton is survived by his second wife, the former June Spearance; two children by his first marriage, Dorothy and Richard Stanton, who live in Lynn, Mass., and his mother, Mrs. Arthur Patterson, of Petersham, Mass.

HUGE STILL RAIDED BY UTICA POLICE

Officers Smash Their Way Into Building, Which Was Marked as Private Dwelling—Finds Still in Full Blast and Nab Pair in Cellar.

Using crowbars and an axe to smash their way into the building, a squad of Utica policemen seized a 12,000-gallon capacity still in full operation at 1202 Hammond avenue, Utica, Friday night.

It was the first still seizure by Utica police in several years and was one of the largest ever raided by them. The two men who were arrested, Vatale Ormasio, 24, 719 Kosuth avenue, and Carmen LaBelle, 28, 1011 Morris street, were discovered hiding in the cellar after the police had battered in a rear door.

On two appearances a private residence, with curtains and shades on all windows, and furnishings in the parlor on the first floor, the building housed a modern plant which included a double row of 10 1,000-gallon vats, a 2,000-gallon vat and a 500-gallon vat, all of which were filled with mash in the cellar.

Cookers on First Floor

The first floor of the place was taken up by a 1,000-gallon cooker and a 500-gallon cooker, from which two large copper columns extended through the second floor and into the attic. In addition to the mash 18 five-gallon cans of finished product, raw materials, and other paraphernalia were seized.

An elaborate piping system connected the vats with each other and holes a foot square had been cut in the first floor over each of the 12 vats in the cellar, through which the vats were filled.

The police squad, which included Capt. J. P. Carthy, Sergeant George Debbold and John J. Jones, Detectives Martin R. Byron and Walter Kleeman and Officers Edward Gallagher, William Zoeller and Frank Wade, surrounded the place shortly after 9 p. m. and took the man's admittance, battered down a rear door.

As the door crashed in the two men ran to the cellar to hide. With drawn guns the raiding party followed them and both men surrendered.

LADY WATCH YOUR STEP!

Prepare "Recovery" Delicacies Now

By Jane Rogers

SINCE a few years after the First World War grins first landed on New England's rock-bound coast, a special delicacy—sweets and others—has been the symbol of rejoicing and good cheer in America. Today on everyone's tongue are in the very atmosphere we breathe. Prepare now to be able to serve throughout the winter months those preserved fruit delicacies that can add so much to the family's enjoyment of the meal and the resulting up-building of morale.

Fresh fruits are abundant and inexpensive. Sugar, too, is low in cost. Modern methods of preserving have cut down the time and work involved. Finally, the results are an important contribution to good health and stimulation. The sugar in a concoction is a source of energy, and the fruits themselves provide essential vitamins and mineral salts. Now, therefore, drying with the products of orchard and garden, is the time to stock your shelves with the wholesomely and add zest to winter meals.

Ripe Grape Jam

4 1/2 cups (2 1/2 lbs.) prepared fruit
7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar
1 cup (1/2 bottle) pectin

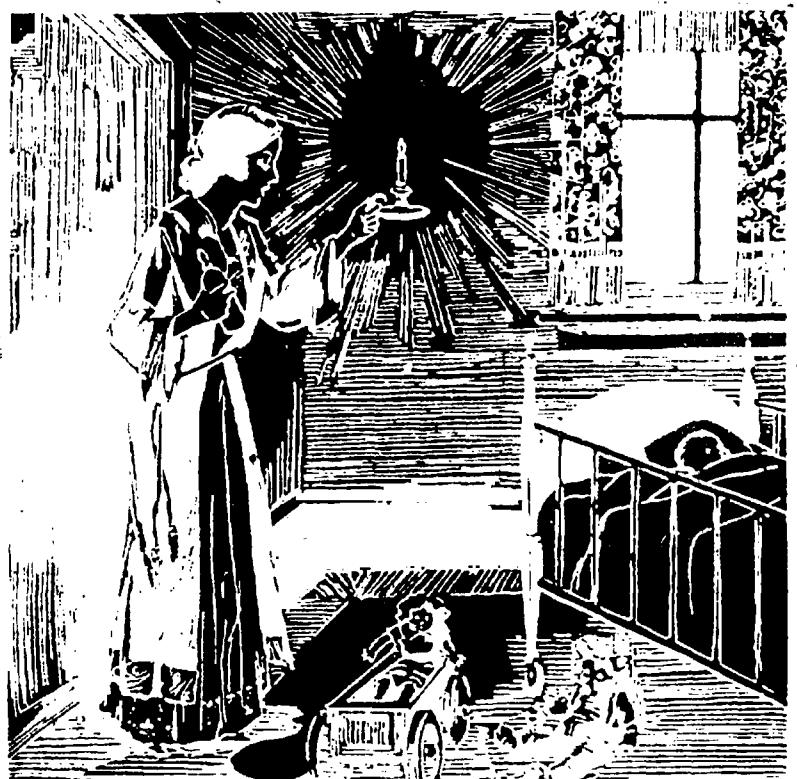

To prepare fruit, slip skins from about 3 pounds fully ripe grapes. Remove seeds by sieving. Chop or grind skins and add to pulp. Add 1 cup water and if desired, grate 1/2 lb. of orange. Stir until mixture boils. Simmer, covered, 30 minutes. (Wild grapes, Malagas and other tight-skinned grapes may be stemmed, crushed whole, simmered with 1/2 cup water 30 minutes, sieved, and then measured.) With right-skinned grapes, add juice of 1 lemon to water. Use 4 cups prepared fruit.

Measure sugar and prepared fruit into large kettle, mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over medium fire, stirring constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire and stir in pectin. Pour quickly into glasses. Cover with 1/4 inch hot paraffin. When cool put on tin covers they have thick, fuzzy skins it is better.

Peach Butter

To 4 pounds of pared sliced peaches add 2 cups of water and cook carefully until peaches are soft. Force through a colander and measure. Allow two-thirds of a cup of sugar for every cup of sliced peaches. If you wish add a drop of oil of cloves and of cinnamon—but no more than a drop. Cook so long that it does not burn, until of the desired consistency, then put in hot sterilized jars and seal. It is not absolutely necessary to pare the peaches when making peach butter—but if

LADY WATCH YOUR STEP!

If you would prevent barked shins—or worse, a broken leg or arm—don't move about dark rooms, where furniture or objects on the floor may cause a serious accident. The latest thing in portable light for use in the board or nursery is an electric candle, of French Colonial design, which operates on batteries. A switch in its base causes the candle to light when picked up and to go out when set down. Its soft light makes it ideal for use in the nursery, giving sufficient light for all practical purposes, but not enough to arouse a sleeping child.

The most noticeable thing about most family trees is their need of pruning.

Chicago, gained 5,000 population in the last year, perhaps because some people who want to die didn't have money enough to get back.
