who has served on the Board since 1967, has an opponent from Watana, Mrs. Donna Bunke. Joseph Botssy of Lowville is running for the position being vacated by Lyndsay Fowler. In other business at the Board meeting, the resignation of Miss Bonnie Berger, a primary teacher, was accepted. Miss Berger is planning to be married, and she is seeking employment near her fiancée's home. Mrs. Patricia Burke was granted a year's leave of absence from her position as an English teacher. Thomas Kingston was approved for appointment as a substitute bus driver. The end-of-year activities of the Senior Class were approved. Special notice was made that all seniors have been informed that the practice of spending all night on the school lawn is prohibited.

ghan. With ANI, the calling party's number is automatically identified, so that the operator does not have to obtain that number after the call is dialed. Complete instructions on DDD are available in the new telephone directory and in a new four page leaflet being included with this month's telephone bills. The million dollar DDD project in the Black River District, coupled with the conversion of General Telephone's Ontario District, later this year, will make the Company 100% DDD throughout New York State. General Telephone is a subsidiary of General Telephone & Electronics Corporation (GTE), and serves over 115,000 telephones throughout New York State.

250 being students. Initial reports in the news media indicated only about 150 had attended. School officials, however, later pointed out that the figure was 250 or beyond. One adult who had attended the film observed that probably if the film had been shown without making "such an issue of it," the attendance would probably have been much, much lower. "Creating a storm over its showing only made people curious and encouraged them to attend." A number of students and adults were interviewed after the showing. A non-teaching mother, who wished to remain anonymous, said, "I thought it was great. Maybe it will wake up some of these kids and show them what really happens." She said she was not in favor of abortion. Another mother said she saw nothing wrong with the film. A third woman refused comment, but was heard thanking Rev. Salmon, who is pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Glenfield, for presenting the film. One student, Marsha Sweeney, said she saw nothing wrong with the film, that indeed it should have been "more gruesome." Stating she is against abortion, she thought the film made good points. Candy Phoenix agreed that it was not strong enough, saying the film "Mechanized Death" shown in driver's education is worse. She thought the uproar over the film's showing was ridiculous. She said she favors abortion only when the mother's life is endangered. A girl who did not view the film, said her mother, a teacher, would not sign the permission slip. "It's a waste of time anyhow. I'm for abortion, and the film probably showed the exceptions." She wished to remain anonymous. Three boys also were not offended by the movie. "It's like getting permission to go see the Ugly Duckling," one said. They agreed they went more because of curiosity than any other reason. As for abortion, they thought it should be up to the individual, although each said he would not want his mate to have one. "Why can't they just put the child up for adoption?" one asked. A number of individuals who had objected to the film's showing stated it was a hoax and demanded to know the source of the film, which Father Salmon readily supplied. It was produced by the Americans United for Life of Washington, D.C., and distributed by the Society for Christian Commonwealth, Warrenton, Va.

Lowville. After completing all the requirements for Eagle Scout, he was examined and recommended for the Eagle Award last fall by a board of review, consisting of Pete Grogan, assistant district commissioner of the Black River District, Al Raymond, scoutmaster of Troop 162 John Denton, Black River District executive, Boy Scouts of America, Bill Crossman, district commissioner of the Black River District, Boy Scouts of America, Martin O'Hara, institutional representative of Troop 162 Rev. Willard Newman of First Baptist Church, Lowville, and Dr. John Herrman, committee member of Troop 162. The Eagle Award and charge was made by Attorney Lyman Perry Williams, left, of Boonville and Turin. Mr. Williams was the first boy to receive the Eagle Award in Lewis County, having been made an Eagle Scout in the year 1924. Mr. Williams also congratulated the parents of the new Eagle Scout and presented to Dr. Smith the miniature Eagle pin.

Model Rocket Contest Here

A model rocket building contest is being sponsored in the area by the Lowville Sport Shop. The contest is open to anyone, with three separate divisions: Division I - Open Class - any age; Division II - 14 to 17 years of age; Division III - up to 14 years of age. The models, which do not have to be launchable, will be displayed in the sport shop window and will be judged on four points: Quality of workmanship, authenticity, ingenuity and overall appearance. There is no limit on the size of the models - as long as they can be taken into the store. First prize in each category will be a $10 merchandise certificate and second prizes will be $5 merchandise certificates. The results will be posted in the store window on June 23. Closing date for entries is June 21.
