Books In Review

by Sue Burgess

Two "small" books came across the library desk that I hope you will find as interesting and enjoyable as I have. The first, a soft-cover, is "The New Wedding" by Khoren Arisian (Vintage). It delves into the how-to of creating your own wedding ceremony. In the section titled "Getting Married Today," topics such as the changing attitude toward marriage, the development of the invidious through marriage and the equality between husband and wife are discussed. With the term the new wedding, the author feels she relates that kind of ceremony where the attempt is made, through words and gestures, to present an honest personal view of human relationships in today's world; she doesn't condone a flippancy ceremony of hip phrases. One such honest and personal ceremony includes, "I take you as my husband(wife), I pledge to share my life openly with you, to speak the truth to you in love; I promise to honor and tenderly care for you, to cherish and encourage your own fulfillment as an individual through all the changes of our lives." Offered are 151 pages of suggestions, ceremonies, traditions and music.

Not much bigger than a paperback book, but in hard cover form, is "A Book of Jesus,"

William Goyen (Doubleday). In less than 150 pages, the author conveys a brief life of Jesus, tells of some of the people in His mind and His way of talking to people. Drawing directly on the four gospels, it retells the story of Jesus in simple language that reveals the true man, touching and touchable, who coped with his society and faced his own destiny, whose spirit matured and deepened through his encounters with friends or enemies. The people he met and those whose lives he touched, all living vividly in the four Gospels, are as real and as recognizable as any contemporary and their problems are the same as ours. A "big" book, though small in size.

Luncheon

Past members of the Executive Committee of Lewis County Extension Service will meet Wednesday, Oct. 3, at the United Methodist Church basement off Rt. 410 in Naumburg. Dinner will be at noon followed by a business meeting and program. Members should bring a table service and a dish of food to pass.

FALL REVIVAL - Evangelist Jack Reiss will be the preacher for the Fall Revival meetings at the Denmark Bible Church.

The services are scheduled from Monday, Oct. 1, through Sunday, Oct. 7, 7:40 each evening. Special music will be provided by several local singing groups. Evangelist Jack Reiss is a native of Memphis, Tenn. It was in this city that he was converted to Christ. He and his wife, Sandra, reside in Chattanooga, Tenn., as members of Highland Park Baptist Church.

He was converted as the result of the personal witness of Mrs. C.J. Johnson while hitchhiking home from high school. In the fall of 1969, he entered Tennessee Temple Schools and was graduated in May, 1972. During his years at Temple, he traveled on weekends and during the summers as preaching opportunities were available. He spent two summers traveling for the schools with the Swordsman Quartet and the Temple Tones Trio.

While a student, he was elected to serve as chaplain of the Student Body. The public is invited to attend.

THE FOREST AND YOU, No. 10

What America's forests mean to you.

Many people thoroughly enjoy forests. They enjoy fishing and hunting and all the other recreation forests can offer. Other people simply like to view a huge tract of trees and marvel at one of nature's most beautiful creations. Still others take a strictly utilitarian viewpoint - forests are watersheds; trees produce oxygen, wood is a raw material. But whatever their point of view, all Americans have this in common: they rely on forests in many ways.

Jobs and a Payroll

Many people rely on America's forests directly for a livelihood. In 1972, the forest products industry employed in excess of 1.75 million people whose paychecks for the year totaled more than $12.5 billion. But that's just the initial value of the paychecks. The sawyer in the lumber mill spent some of his paycheck for groceries. The grocer used part of the same money to buy clothes. The clothier used a portion of the money which he received from the grocer to pay the plumber. And so it goes. A single paycheck spreading out to purchase a wide variety of goods and services. And all of it ultimately derived from forests. In addition several million other people working in thousands of companies earn their livelihood selling products and services to the forest products industry.

Taxes and Services

Privately-owned forests also provide tax revenue. Last year, taxes paid by companies in the forest products industry amounted to many millions of dollars. Part of these dollars went to the federal government. The rest helped to support local schools, fire and police departments, sewage disposal systems, and other services provided by state and local governments. So the government relies on forests for tax revenue, and people, in turn, depend on the services which are provided by the taxes.

There are thousands of companies in the forest products industry. These companies manufacture a variety of products ranging from plywood and lumber to pulp, paper, and chemicals. Georgia-Pacific is one of these companies.

Georgia-Pacific employs over 34,000 people. The Company owns in fee more than 4.5 million acres of timberlands in the U.S., Canada, and Brazil; and has exclusive cutting rights to 1.25 million acres in Indonesia, the Philippines and Canada. G-P's significance is reflected in some revealing statistics: In 1972 Georgia-Pacific's assets amounted to $1.7 billion. Sales totaled $1.7 billion. And, in payrolls and taxes, the Company paid out a total of $432,000,000 in payrolls and taxes to employees, the federal government, and state and local governments. Here in the Northeast, Georgia-Pacific employs 3,400 people. In 1972, Company payrolls and taxes in this area amounted to $49,000,000.

The Endless Bounty

Today, more than 5,000 products are made from wood. Many products which we have come to consider as necessities are derived from forests. And it seems that new products are continually being developed from wood and wood by-products. So, even if you are not directly affected by the forest products industry, you still rely on America's forests.

Fortunately, forests are a renewable resource. And that may be their greatest value. They will continue to provide man with the luxuries and necessities of life. Forever.
