REAL HEALTH CENTER PROPOSED FOR CITY

No finer and generally agreeable solution of the Health department's problem of how to acquire more badly needed office space has been heard in all the discussions that the original thought of some of our leading taxpayers this week pertaining to acquisition of Memorial Field in Ridge Road as a Health Center for Lackawanna.

This is a marvelous thought, a constructive one, and certainly a solution of a difficult problem.

Everyone knows the quarters in Lackawanna City Hall are altogether too small to accommodate the rapidly expanding work program so efficiently conducted under the administration of Health Officer Dr. Anthony S. Culkowski.

But how to enlarge on those quarters in the City Hall has ever been a problem.

The real fact of the matter is there is no available room in the City building, and if the health department is to expand the health quarters must be moved elsewhere.

Now the thought is advanced that Memorial Field, really too small for athletic enterprises, can be adopted by the city as a Health Center and a Health building erected there at very small additional cost to what would be necessary to refit some other building.

With spacious lawns for children under observation, and good sized clinical quarters Lackawanna's great need would be filled.

With new South Park stadium now a fact the big athletic events would be staged there in future and Memorial field, adjoining the street need not be used for athletic contests any more.

ALL NATIONS EYE LINDY'S EXPLOITS

World Follows Plans for Trip to Orient.

Washington.—Where Lindbergh goes the world's imagination follows—an axiom of American journalism—has received new confirmation incidental to announcement of the aviator's plan for a flight to Japan and China.

Over four years have elapsed since Lindbergh "hopped off" from Roosevelt field for the first successful non-stop flight to Paris. The tremendous interest that attended his trans-Atlantic flight has persisted during successive years, owing to a well timed series of aerial accomplishments. These have belied any possibility that the first transcendental exploit was merely the result of luck.

His Good Will Trip. In four years since he startled the world he has been the object of attempted exploitation in every field, despite which he still is best identified for his contributions to aviation.

After his return to the United States in 1927 he soon embarked on a nation-wide tour, under auspices of the Guggenheim foundation, which aimed to build up popular interest in aviation—in a word, to help make the public "air minded." This eventful and safe tour was estimated of great importance as an encouragement to commercial aviation.

His next great effort, semidiplomatic in character, was a "good will trip" to Mexico and countries in the Caribbean region.

Lindbergh's next important contribution to the progress of aviation was as consultant engineer in the projection of transcontinental joint air and mail service, which was inaugurated successfully.

In 1929 Lindbergh piloted the inauguration of an air line down the Antilles to Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana, on the north coast of South America.

In the next year Lindbergh had a new thrill in store for the country, a feat which he shared with his wife, Mrs. Ann Morrow Lindbergh, soon to participate in his fortunes on the far eastern flight.

Set Coast-to-Coast Mark.

The couple left Los Angeles in the morning, stopped at Wichita, Kan., in the afternoon for refueling, and the same night hurtled into Roosevelt field, N. Y., for a new transcontinental record. The flight of about 2,700 miles was made in 14 hours 45 minutes and 20 seconds, at an average of 150 miles per hour, beating the previous record of Capt. Frank M. Hawks by 2 hours 52 minutes and 44 seconds.

The Lindberghs' transcontinental flight was made at high altitude, from 10,000 to 15,000 feet, and for the announced purpose, "to test the theory that airplane speed and efficiency are to be sought above storm areas, in rare atmosphere."

This achievement kept the Lindberghs at the peak of national esteem, from a technical as well as popular standpoint. It proved to aviation authorities that Lindbergh was not inclined to "stand still" in his profession, but disposed to press onward for new successes which would be of practical value to aviation.

Aviation experts now are convinced that Lindbergh's far eastern flight aims at specific technical results of which the public has not yet been fully apprised. The flight, therefore, will command the attention of technicians as well as of the masses in many countries who find in "Lindy's exploits" a serial story of never fading interest.

Ackerman's Umbrella

Still Loyal in 52nd Year

Plainfield, N. J.—An ancient and widely traveled umbrella, the property of Representative Ernest R. Ackerman, of 506 West Eighth street, recently began its fifty-second year of service. The umbrella was bought in Liverpool, coincidental with another one purchased by Dr. George E. Vincent, former president of the Rockefeller foundation. Dr. Vincent discarded his years ago, but Mr. Ackerman's has traveled 750,000 miles with him, over every continent. Mr. Ackerman says that when the umbrella begins to show signs of wear he will donate it to the Plainfield public library.

Damage Suit Against

City Lasts for 18 Years

Cincinnati.—Mrs. Elizabeth Gohmann sued the town of St. Bernard, near here, for damages in connection with a street improvement in 1913. Three judgments in her favor have been returned in the 18 years since, but she never has collected a cent because of appeals. The latest judgment in her favor was for $3,030, but Mrs. Gohmann cannot recall the amount sought in the original suit.

Prisoners Construct

County Courthouse

Crelighton, Neb.—Knox county's new courthouse will be built by prisoners of the county jail. Oliver Prosser, brick maker, has been hired by the county to boss the prisoners in making the bricks which will be used in the new county building. The present jail population is two men. Prosser says he needs two more for an efficient force.
