BI-CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION OFFICIALLY OPENS MONDAY

President Hoover will officially open the nine-months, nation-wide George Washington Bi-Centennial celebration at noon (Eastern stanlard time) Feb. 22, when he will deliver his George Washington adhess before a joint meeting of Congress assembled in the House of Representatives in the capitol. The judges of the Supreme court, members of the Cabinet, foreign Ioolmats and many other distinguished visitors also will be present, and the adlress will be carried to every corner of America over a sation-wide hook-up.

Following his address, President Hoover will be escorted to the East steps of the Capitol, and will give the signal for the singing of "America" bya chorus of ten thousand voices. It is expected that million of people will join in this "sing" as it comes over the air.

The great chorus gathered at the Capitol will be conducted by Walter Damrosch and will be accompanied by the United States Army, Navy and Marine bands which will paly as a unit under the direction o John Philip Sousa. An "inaugural" crowd is expected to be on hand for these ceremonies.

After luncheon, President Hoover, accompanied by the members of the Cnited States George Washingtos Bi-Centennial commission and the Ditsrict of Columbia George Washington Bi-Centennial commission will go to Mount Vernon to lay a wreath on the tomb of the Father of His Country in the ame of a united nation.

At 3 p. m. there will be exercises at the Washington Monment under the auspices of the various patriotic societies is the District of Columbia.

In the evening the George Washington Colonial Costume ball will be held at the Mayflower Hotel under the auspices of the United States George WashingtonBi-Centennial commission asd the District of Columbia Bi-Centennial commission. No effort is being spared to reproduce the colonial atmosphere for this occasion. The afair is being managed by experts and every state will be represented by especially invited guests.

While the celebration officially opens on Feb. 2, Sunday Feb. 21 will be an active day in the District of Columbia as well as in every city is America. The United States George Washington Bi-Centennial commission has suggested special religious services for George Washington to be held wherevr poople gather to worship. Response from the various church organizatioons to this project has been remarkable.

It is probable that practically all of the 232,000 churches will hold special services honoring the first president os this day.

A folk-masque written especially for the United States George Washington Bi-Centennial commission by Percy MacKaye will be presented at Constitutional hall, Washington, D. C, os the evening of Feb. 21. This masque is being produced under the auspices of the United States George Washington Bi-Centennial commission and the District of Columbia George Washington Bi-Centennial commission.

The masque is entitled "Wawefield," samed after the birthplace of George Washington, and portrays in symbolic form the story of George Washington. Five hundred adults and children are being rehearsed for this production and the music will be furnished by the United States Marine band. The folk-masque is being printed by the United States George Washington Bi-Centennial commission for use in other cities. It is expected that this masque will be produced in all the large cities of the United States during the Bi-Centennial celebration.

During the week of Feb. 22, motion pictures depicting principal events of the life of George Washington entitled "Washington the Man and the Capitol' and produced by Warner Bros., will be shown in the theaters of America as a feature of the Bi-Centennial celebration. Hundreds of theaters ahve already arranged for such a showing, iand, undoubtedly, practically every motion picture theater in America will be booked to show the lie of Geoge Washington on the screen.

Zwieback Pie Is Colorful And Novel

PASTRY cooks, marvelous as their creations are, often sigh for something entirely original and completely different, with which to startle the family or guests. And there are those, pastry-making being an art, who are still trying to achieve rich flaky crust, and would shout with joy to find something giving the effect of pastry, and yet not so difficult. The recipe given here satisfies both expert and beginner—is sure to surprise and please those to whom it is served. Zwieback pie! The very name suggests the flavors and colors of fine German cookery.

The recipe when tested produced a fine golden brown crust—just like the beauty of the zwieback itself; and bright yellow cream filling in contrast to the white meringue, decorated with zwieback mixture on the top. The cream filling, always a success with evaporated milk, provides the exactly right consistency. Be careful not to overcook the filling.

Zwieback Pie

Crust	Filling
1 box zwieback (2 cups ground)	3 egg yolks
⅓ cup butter	½ cup sugar
¾ cup brown sugar	½ tsp salt
½ tsp cinnamon	1 tsp. vanilla
	1 tbsp. cornstarch
	1 cup evaporated milk
Meringue	1 cup water
3 egg whites
6 tbsp. sugar

Cream together butter and brown sugar. Add cinnamon and zwieback and blend thoroughly. Cover bottom of large deep pie tin with part of mixture and reserve rest for top of pie.

Blend sugar, salt and cornstarch. Add boiling water and boil until thick and transparent, stirring constantly. Beat egg yolks, add milk and stir slowly into starch mixture. Cook until mixture hangs from spoon. Add vanilla and pour into zwieback crust. Cover with meringue and top with remainder of zwieback mixture. Bake in a moderate oven until brown. Yield: 8 servings.

If the family is blasé about pie, and many are, they will hardly believe their palates when they try this.

Curious Facts About Where N. Y. Motor Cars Are Owned

OWEN B. AUGSPURGER, President of the New York Automobile Club, has had prepared a map of New York which shows some surprising things about the distribution of automobile ownership in the state. From motor car registrations it shows that 81.7% of motor vehicles are owned in a zone 25 miles wide, just inside the state's boundary; in all the rest of the state are only a little over 18%.

"This map ought to be a telling argument against increasing the gasoline tax," said Mr. Augspurger. "Whenever the tax goes above 2c a large share of gasoline used along the border will be bootlegged in from outside, without paying tax. That has been done on a huge scale in all the states that have taxes higher than New York's present 2c.

"But that isn't all of it. The bootlegging truck could bring in a cargo of tax-free Pennsylvania gasoline to New York, deliver it, and then load up with another cargo of tax-free New York gasoline and haul it back to a filling station in Pennsylvania, thus doubling his corrupt winnings, and defrauding the revenue of both states.

"Wherever the gasoline taxes are high, they offer a prize too tempting to be resisted. The interstate commerce provision of the constitution absolutely stops the states from interfering with such movements. If the filling station man is willing to make false reports of gasoline handled, and split the swag with the truckman, it is practically impossible to prevent the tax being evaded and the gasoline consumer robbed. Exactly that has been done in all the high-tax states, and if the New York tax is raised it will be done here in a big way.

"Distribution plants just across the state line would provide the gasoline; tax-evading retailers would have it trucked in; everybody would make a good thing out of it, except the consumers, who would, of course, go right on paying the tax, and the state, which would never get the money.

"We understand in Pennsylvania, under a 3-cent tax, the Commonwealth lost $18,000,000 in one year through such 'bootlegging.' In Indiana it has gotten so bad that there is serious discussion of reducing the tax in order to increase the revenue.

"New York would be the ideal place for bootlegging, because of its extensive waterfront close to great populations. The racketeers would use boats and barges, as they did in Pennsylvania; bringing gasoline to filling stations that were in on the racket.

"In Pennsylvania they found that by this method millions of gallons of gasoline were coming into the state; it paid no tax in the state from which it came, and had little trouble dodging the Pennsylvania tax. Pennsylvania had to start a 'gasoline navy,' patrolling all the waters by which boats could bring in the stuff.

"New York with its rich market and extended frontage of navigable waters would be ideal for such operations. In the end the whole system of highway financing through the gasoline tax would break down. Because it has studied the experience of other states and is interested in development of highways, the New York Automobile Club is unqualifiedly opposed to any increase in the gasoline tax."
