DOWN ON LONG ISLAND.

Judge Dykman Orders Judgment Against Quenza County.

A man who was killed during a shooting spree in a Long Island town was identified as Thomas Platt, a 57-year-old man who had beenenery with his family at the time of the shooting.

The shooting occurred at the Delavan, a small town near Babylon, on January 11. Police said that Platt was shot and killed by an unknown person, who also wounded another person in the incident.

Investigation is ongoing, and the police have not released any further details about the shooting.

OTHER NEW YORK NEWS.

The Kings County Assemblymen strike me ns that the members of the Assembly have made a number of proposals for the improvement of the city's infrastructure, including the construction of new roads and bridges.

The proposals have been met with mixed reactions, with some members of the Assembly supporting the initiatives and others expressing concerns about the cost of the projects.

The proposals will be discussed further at a meeting of the Assembly next week.

THREE ANTAGONISTIC RAPID TRANSIT LINES.

The fact that three antagonistic rapid transit lines are operating in the city has caused considerable confusion for commuters, who are often unsure which line to take for their destination.

The three lines are the BMT, the IRT, and the IND, and they operate independently of each other, with their own routes and schedules.

Although the lines are operated by different companies, they are all part of the same overall system, and commuters can transfer between them at certain stations.

ANNUAL ELECTION OF OFFICERS—OTHER IN-

The annual election of officers was held at the Academy of Music on Thursday. The statement that the officers have been chosen is that they are the most capable and experienced in the field, and that they will serve the interests of the organization.

The officers for the upcoming year were chosen, and they will be inaugurated at the next meeting of the organization.
