Maude's Memo
Redfield Village

The Alumni Picnic for the Redfield Union School was held on August 24, 1985. Due to rain, it was held in the Rebecca Lodge Hall. Because of this, the Class of 1933 with half of their classmates attending. It was voted to continue these picnics. We will meet on August 16, in 1986 at the Lodge Hall. As everyone will know, we are hoping for a better attendance. It was also voted to make this a school picnic. Anyone attending the Redfield School from 1933 to 1942 from first to twelfth grade is invited to attend. So, everyone, keep this date open as we hope to spread the word. It will be hard to contact each person individually. Each graduate will let his family know if others attended the school. A copy of yearbooks, newsclippings, class wills, etc., will be displayed to look at.

The Grant girls did a lovely job getting pictures copied and had a lovely display of each graduating class. Others brought pictures to show their classes attending. Sandy Creek

First we have the dry season, then the wet season. Local weatherman L.H. Parsons reports that we had four inches of rain during the first nineth of September—compared to 3.2 inches for the whole month of August. Now, finally, the nights are chilly and the sunny days carry an autumnal glow.

The September 11 Oswego Edition of the Syracuse Post-Standard carried an article on the controversial "Star Wars" research which has members of the Syracuse University at odds with each other. Written by Heather Jobson, senior journalism student at the Newhouse School, U. S., Heather is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Jobson of Lacona and a Hilton Scholar and 1982 graduate of SCSS. She spent the summer working as an intern for a daily newspaper and is now serving as the S.U. campus correspondent for Newsweek. The P-S article was written as part of Heather's current school-related internship with the Syracuse newspapers.

The Quilters' Guild will meet at 2 p.m., Wednesday, September 18 at the home of Margaret Sandy for a work session cutting out materials.

The Sandy Creek Regional Planning Board will meet at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, September 24, at the Town Hall. All meetings of the Planning Board are open to the public.

Correction

In the September 2 issue of the Banner Times, one of the two recipients of the Kiwanis Club of Great Pulaski Scholarships was mistakenly identified as Michelle Kuss. The two graduates receiving the scholarships were Melinda Ruyle and Stephanie O'Connor.
