GRATITUDE OF SENIORS EXPRESSED

The salutatory address, given by Betty Jane Ackerson at the Newark High School commencement exercises Tuesday night, follows.

On behalf of the class of 1941, I welcome you all at this, the initial graduation in our new auditorium.

For years, seniors have awaited such an event as this—a commencement in our own school, and at last that dream has become a reality. As we sit here for the last time together, we fully realize the honor bestowed upon us. We are the beginning of a new epoch.

Members of our faculty—you deserve more credit than we can possibly extend to you. Some of you, we shall probably not see again, but your cooperation and leadership, we can never forget. You have taught us our languages, mathematics, and sciences, but more than this, you have shown us the American way of life! In our school we have none of the religious, political, and racial barriers which have today so divided the world. We know as you do, that only a united people can survive the ordeals before us. As we separate tonight and each travels his individual road, your influence will linger with us. It will make our decisions surer and wiser; our actions more commendable.

Parents and friends—it is to you also that we owe our accomplishments tonight. Senior in Newark and you have revealed your eagerness in sharing our responsibilities. But claiming perhaps the most prominent place in our minds is your presentation of our new school.

The memory of our graduation will fade with the oncoming years as all events must, but this building, the new Newark High, will remain as evidence of the wonderful times we have had. It will stand as a monument to youth, erected by the generous, school-conscious citizens of our village. Through you, has emerged something which cannot easily be forgotten. It exemplifies our ideals of democracy and this school shall live to serve our children as it has us.

We, as a Senior class can show our deepest appreciation only through two words which come straight from our hearts, "Thank You."

Thank you for your cooperation, your indulgence, your loyalty. But thank you most of all for proving that this is still a true democracy, that people here admire education, that we have thoughts of improving the world instead of breaking it down.

This graduation will soon slip from your minds but the ideals which are symbolized here will rise above war and above oppression. They will, we hope, constitute an ever-lasting peace.

High-Heeled Shoes
Ancient Egyptians wore the high-heeled shoe which was originally invented by the Persians to keep as much of the foot as possible out of contact with the hot desert sands.

Our realization of these ambitions will reflect on our class and on our school. Therefore it is up to us to make these reflections so worthy of our school that they will increase the honor and the prestige of Newark High.

The Evolution Of Our Flag

Our first flag, used in 1776 was like the British standard with thirteen red and white stripes substituted for the solid red of the British ensign. In January 1777, Congress adopted a new flag with a circle of white stars on a blue field to replace the British union of the cross of St. George and the Scottish cross of St. Andrew.

As our country expanded until our flag contains forty-eight stars, the ideals which inspired the founders of our nation have continued to engage the unwavering support of every American.

As public servants, members of this organization continue to serve, with unwavering fidelity, all who call us regardless of their social or financial circumstances.
